Ayub Ansary Sizan Shojol graduated from the National Institute of Fashion Design (NIFD) in the year 2011. He now works as a designer at Roddur, a fashion house. Moreover, he works for Philippine Society of Bangladesh and also as a freelance designer. At quite a young age, he has designed costumes for various organisations and programmes, including the Kolkata Fashion Week.

For the Philippine Society of Bangladesh, he had designed costumes for their Halloween parties. Designing costumes is an amazing challenge for a fashion designer as it allows them to break all common conventions that otherwise are very important. "The Halloween parties at the Philippine Society of Bangladesh are set in different themes each year. Therefore, I have enough liberty to try out different things," informs Shojol.

Halloween is just around the corner. And it is not too late to pull together a last-minute party or make a costume you can flaunt at a friend's halloween bash. You can leave this headache to the professional. Shojol can be reached at #01676404418.
