

Young heart-throb, Zerif Ahmed has become a musical sensation in a matter of years. Belonging to a famous musical family, Zerif has carved out his own path into the industry by honing his skills thoroughly. A part of the band Train Wreck in 2008, Zerif moved on to other renowned bands as their guitarist, like Power Surge, through which he got into the limelight and most recently, Nemesis. The Star Weekend caught up with Zerif to find out some fun-facts about him.

What are your three favourite possessions?

I can't think of so many things but my Telecaster has to be on top of that list.

Name your top three books.

The Fifty Shades of Grey Trilogy? I don't read too many books, recommend some maybe?

Your top five musicians.

Thom Yorke, Arnob Chowdhury, Rafa, Mike Einziger, Edge

What would you do with 1 crore taka

Start my own business. I want to open a proper Media Institute in Dhaka.

What is your life's motto?

Have you ever heard Young, Wild and Free by Snoop Dogg? Well, that's what I'm all about.

Who is your biggest musical inspiration?

This one goes to my dad-- if it wasn't for him, things probably would have been different.

When Zerif is not on stage or jamming, we can find him...

Getting spiritualised with his friends or travelling. Adventure, I like.

What advice would you give to young aspiring musicians?

Don't give up on your dreams. Things come around.
