

A CHAT WITH

ANISUR RAHMAN

MILON

Nowadays you're mostly busy working in films. "Blackmail" was released a few months back and now "Bhalobasha'r Golpo".

-I won't say "mostly busy", but yes I have been working in films more regularly. I dream of doing something good for the industry and although I was not here for the release of "Blackmail", I am actively participating in promoting "Bhalobasha'r Golpo". It is a wonderful film by Ononno Mamun, and I hope the audience will find the type of story they look for in this film.

The lead actress in the film, Afrin, is a new face in the scene. Will the audience warm up to her?

-"Bhalobasha'r Golpo" is my seventh film and Afrin's first. I have to say I was a bit worried about it, but the director took his time and built up the new comer. She gave it her best effort and I believe the audience will like her performance.

You work in both TV dramas and films; does it give rise to any issues?

-I've worked in TV for 13 years before entering the film industry, and my recognition among the fans came from television. I do tend to give more time to films nowadays compared to TV dramas, but it creates no problems. I have gradually created an impression among the fans through my films but I am not satisfied yet as I want to star in good films more frequently. I wish to continue working in both sectors.

How has the audience received "Bhalobasha'r Golpo" so far?

-I was astounded by the audience's reaction. They let me know of their reactions when I went and watched the initial screening with them. It has all the elements of a good film with a message for lovers and some action as well. The music from the movie are also hits with the audience. The love from the audience inspires me to carry on.

You played "Moti" in 'Onek Shadher Moina' and now "Masum" in "Bhalobasha'r Golpo".

Both characters are based on the usual rural resident. Is that a personal preference?

-No, not really. Both the characters are very different in the sense that Moti was a lively and feisty sort of person whereas Masum is a free spirited and simple-minded person. I find no similarity between the characters, as I always try to be careful in picking the characters in the movies.

What movies and TV dramas do you have coming up?

-Iftekhar Chowdhury's "Oneway", Saif Chandan's "Target", Habibur Rahman Habib's "Rani'r Jatra" and, "Adi" and "Naior" by Tanim Rahman Angshu. Three series dramas are already playing and I am working on a few single TV dramas as well.

SPECTRE

BOND faces his greatest adversary

James Bond is back with this latest instalment in the long running 007 series. The story picks up just after the critically acclaimed Skyfall. Following her death at the hands of Raoul Silva, M leaves James Bond a final assignment that will see him come face-to-face with the sinister organisation known as SPECTRE. While Gareth Mallory, the newly appointed M, continues fighting political pressures that threaten the future of MI6 in the face of a global surveillance initiative code-named "Nine Eyes", Bond discovers that the only way to unravel the web of conspiracy is to protect Madelene Swann, the innocent daughter of a powerful enemy. Following a trail from Mexico to Italy, Austria and Morocco, he is forced to operate outside his purview as he is drawn into a confrontation with an enemy from his past. The movie has already seen a UK only release, with praise from critics and audiences alike, further fuelling the anticipation for the November 6th worldwide release. Better get tickets soon because this is a bonafide hit.
