

TIB website opens for corruption complaints

Transparency International Bangladesh (TIB) opened a new option in its website, allowing people to inform the anti-corruption watchdog of corruption in health, education, local government, land and climate financing sectors. A TIB press release yesterday announced the new initiative, "report corruption" (www.tib-bangladesh.org/rc). "The main objective of the initiative is to analyse the data and information collected and identify corruption prone sectors and their behaviour," it read. It would also send specific corruption complaints to Anti-Corruption Commission for legal action and would follow up on their actions. However, the press statement noted that TIB does not take any action against any person and does not have the authority to take any legal or administrative action based on information received.

Makeshift kitchen markets occupy the footpath in front of Hazrat Shah Ali Girls School in Mirpur 2 of the capital, and throw their rubbish on the street narrowing the road and spreading bad odour in the area. Although the makeshift shops had been evicted many times before, locally influential people set them up again allegedly with the assistance from police. The photo was taken yesterday.

Md Qaiyum at Badda, asked him to do something using the motorbike. But Sharif did not know what exactly they would do with his motorbike and he waited for hours and tried repeatedly to communicate with Bhagne Russell but failed. Later, he came to know that Bhagne Russell, Shooter Rubel and Chakki Russell killed the Italian man using his motorbike, he said, adding that he also learned that detectives seized his motorcycle. Sharif said he was arrested even though he was not involved. Metropolitan Magistrate Shahriar Mahmud Adnan recorded the statement of Sharif for three hours and sent him to Dhaka Central Jail. Earlier, two others -- Shooter Rubel and Bhagne Russell -- confessed to the same magistrate that they along with Chakki Russell killed the Italian man. Another accused, Chakki Russell, is on an eight-day remand. Chakki and Bhagne Russell said their main objective was to create panic in the diplomatic areas including Gulshan.

Greens find BT brinjal farming

For the first time, 20 farmers cultivated it, while in the second season 110 farmers in 19 districts cultivated the brinjal. In both seasons, she said, they had found the GM crop had been proved a "failure". "The farmers faced losses. The authorities told them that the brinjals will face no pest attacks, but actually pest attacks are on the leaves and hard parts of the plants," she said. In that case, BARI agriculturists advised them to spray pesticides. "At least 16 farmers demanded compensation," Farida Akhter said. Ubining and Naya Krishi Andolon conducted a survey on BT brinjal cultivation during the second season -- November-December 2014 and March-April 2015. In this season, the BT brinjal plants faced various types of virus, fungus, pest attacks that damaged its leaves, hard parts of the plants and roots. In many cases, the brinjal rotted. "Even, the supervisor agriculturists themselves often sprayed pesticides. We found 35 types of pesticides have been used in BT brinjal plants this season," Farida Akhtersaid. Farmers also faced losses by cultivating BT brinjal as the yield was lower than that of local varieties, and as its demand in the market was low. Activists said the government is soon going to introduce another GM crop, Golden Rice, arguing it is enriched with vitamin A without assessing if it has any health hazards. "In Bangladesh, we have ample vegetables having vitamin A. So, why should we go for GM crop for it," said Sakiul Millat Morshed, executive director of Shikkha Shasthya Unnayan Karzakram. He said while the developed countries were going against GM crops, multinational companies were expanding those to the poor countries and would gradually create markets for those. "We need to be aware of it and act accordingly," Morshed said. BARI Director General Rafiqul Islam Mondal, however, denied the allegations, saying that all BT brinjal farmers were successful in the second season though in the first season yield was not very good because of some mismanagement. No insecticide was used in cultivating BT brinjal, he told The Daily Star. "We have all evidence of BT brinjal's success," Rafiqul Islam said.

Yesterday Baira President Muhammad Abul Bashar told The Daily Star that they were against the appointment of foreign companies in handling recruitments from Bangladesh. Baira will not tolerate it if anybody attempts to create a syndicate in Bangladesh, he said, adding, "We have told our government clearly that our businessmen must be given a chance to do business." However, a senior expatriates' ministry official told The Daily Star that the government would prioritise migrants' interests and reducing their costs. A memorandum of understanding on the finalised recruitment modalities will be signed later, he added.
