

Rusty Hinges

Right now I feel like the Tin Man from Oz. This analogy may not be perfect because his goal in life was to get himself a heart, whereas what I'm looking for is an example of a metal man who's dying for a spot of oil in those hinges.

Basically my shoulder's all stiff and painful right now, and IT COULD HAPPEN TO YOU. We're in that special time of year again when you can't tell if it's going to be hot or cold the next morning, but right now you'll want to sleep with your upper body away from any windows. You do not want to wake up with a dull pain in your body that gets sharp as you move a necessary muscle.

Then again, sleeping with your feet pointed at the window instead can lead you to pulling a leg muscle. If that's ever happened to you, you might think the shoulder cramp is the better deal. It's not, really. Shoulder cramp is all day: leg muscle just makes you wish you were dead for five minutes.

THIS WEEK'S HORRORSCOPE

ARIES
 A mean man will build a railroad through your house and not even give you maple syrup.

TAURUS
 You'll find chopsticks hidden in the air vents in your room.

GEMINI
 Metal surfboards are the best because they cut right through malicious water snakes.

CANCER
 When I play twister I use the Magic Conch Shell to guide us. Our play mat is weird.

LEO
 Everybody has a story and they're all better than yours. This statement stands the test of time.

VIRGO
 Keep magnets in your pocket for good luck. They will lead you in the right direction. HAH!

LIBRA
 Sure ISS is horrible but who do you think has a more aesthetic body? Me or Chris Hadfield?

SCORPIO
 Armed ninjas will invade your classroom and shred all the group projects on the walls.

SAGITTARIUS
 1% of all otters are devil otters, a distant relative of the chicken that lays devilled eggs.

CAPRICORN
 You will be held up by a veggie vendor brandishing a particularly sharp and deadly carrot.

AQUARIUS
 You will find it harder to get people to believe your poorly phrased truths than your casual lies.

PISCES
 The janitor's closet turns into an ice cream store every time it is locked from the outside.

APP REVIEW

MICROSOFT OFFICE LENS

SALMAN CHOWDHURY ABIR

Platform's: Windows, Android, iOS

Not many apps have tried to maximize the potential of text capture, sure there is Evernote that can come in handy, but it lacks any real options to use it as an everyday app. Enter Microsoft's Office Lens, which alongside all the basics adds in some cool options to make it more viable as a go to app.

The UI itself is very simplistic. Upon launch it shows you a quick intro and then goes directly to the camera, where you get the standard options of shooting, scanning and adjusting flash coupled with a minimalistic overflow menu, from which you gain access to other options and advanced settings. You simply choose the shot type and click a picture of the document you want to store text from then it pops up the file with options for saving, deleting and cropping. You can then perform those actions or save it, the latter is where I was surprised the most. Microsoft office Lens gives you the option to save the shot directly to OneNote, OneDrive, Word, PowerPoint or even just as a PDF file. So this is where the overall experience feels much superior.

For people who deal with a lot of documents and need a handy app to store them efficiently, Office Lens is definitely worth a try. It's a useful tool that will help you organise your stuff a little more.
