RICE PROCUREMENT

Govt offers lower price

STAFF CORRESPONDENT

The government has decided to procure Aman rice from farmers at a lower price than the previous season.

But to cushion the effect of cheaper rice varieties from India, the government plans to slap more duty on imported rice, said Food Minister Qamrul Islam.

The decisions came at a meeting of the Food Planning and Monitoring Committee yesterday with the food minister in the chair.

Briefing reporters after the meeting, he said the issue of increasing the duty had been discussed and a decision in this regard would be taken in a couple of days.

The meeting decided that the government would procure two lakh tonnes of Aman rice this season at Tk 31 per kg from December 15 to March 15.

Last year, the government procured Aman rice at Tk 32 per kg.

The price offer is one taka less despite the fact that Aman production cost has increased from last year's Tk 28 a kg to Tk 28.50 a kg this year.

Officials concerned reasoned that as the current price of rice is cheaper in the market than the previous year, the procurement price has been adjusted accordingly.

The procurement season came at a time when the government granaries are full to the brim with earlier stocks, and that is why, the government is now planning to slash

Tale of urban monkeys

SHARIER KHAN

For the last two years, whenever Pintu visits his parental home in Doniya, a few kilometres off Sayedabad, he sees a troop of wild monkeys on house roofs in the treeless neighbourhood.

Seeing them play around, he asks his old mother, "Why don't you give these poor souls some food?"

And his mother would angrily reply, "Give them food? They are a bunch of hooligans! I don't know where they came from -- but they are terrorising the neighbourhood for

Manpower export rises

BELAL HOSSAIN BIPOB

More Bangladeshi workers went abroad in the first 10 months of this year than the entire last year, government data show.

Over 4.5 lakh male and 90,000 female workers migrated to different countries until November 10, according to statistics of the Bureau of Manpower Employment and Training (BMET).

The numbers stood at around 4.25 lakh and 76,007, respectively, at the end of last year.

BMET Director General Begum Shamsun Nahar expressed her hope that they would be able to send over 5,00,000 male and 1,00,000 female workers abroad by the end of this year.

Officials at the expatriates' welfare and overseas employment ministry said the demand for Bangladeshi workers -- both males and females -- in countries like Oman, Qatar, the UAE, Singapore and Jordan was going up every day.

Until November 10 this year, Oman has emerged as the country recruiting highest number of Bangladeshi male workers -- 1,03,637, show the BMET statistics.

Qatar is second on the list. It hired 1,01,313 male workers during the same period.

At least 45,378 Bangladeshis have migrated to Singapore, the third largest destination for the jobseekers, while 41,146 migrants went to Saudi Arabia during the same time.

The United Arab Emirates (UAE), which did not hire Bangladeshi male workers for three years, has

Folk music fest begins

Big turnout on opening night

FAHMIM FERDous

The army stadium in the capital has long served more as a concert venue than a sports arena, but the sights at the venue on the opening night of the three-day Dhaka International Folk Festival -- presented by Meril -- were extraordinary yesterday.

Even at midnight, tens of thousands filled the arena with buoyant energy, as folk musicians from Bangladesh, India and Pakistan gave enthralling performances one after another.

Pallavi Dance Centre, led by noted dancer-choreographer Minu Haque, opened the festival,

Modi visits UK amid protests

Becomes first Indian PM to address British parliament, signs trade deals

AGENCIES

Britain and India welcomed billions of pounds worth of trade deals during a visit by Indian Prime Minister Narendra Modi, but his arrival yesterday was overshadowed by protests over a perceived rise in intolerance back home.

Modi got a warm welcome by British Prime Minister David Cameron, who has tried to cultivate closer ties with India to secure business opportunities in a fast-growing economy at a time when Modi has been prioritising other relationships.

For his part, Modi is seeking to restore his authority on the world stage after a defeat for his party in Bihar polls. He appealed to business to invest in a more transparent India in a speech at the Guildhall.

Modi is on a three-day visit to Britain, the first by an Indian prime minister in nearly 10 years. He will meet Queen Elizabeth II today and address a huge rally at

HISTORIC ELECTION IN MYANMAR
Military offers olive branch to Suu Kyi
Pledges smooth power transfer; Obama congratulates the democracy icon, urges 'inclusive' govt

AFP, Yangon

Myanmar's military establishment yesterday pledged to ensure a smooth transition of power as Aung San Suu Kyi's pro-democracy party stood on the verge of a crushing election win.

The country has been dominated by the military for half a century through direct junta rule and -- since 2011 -- by a quasi-civilian government run by its allies.

But the balance of power is almost certain to shift to Suu Kyi's National League for Democracy (NLD).

It has captured more than 80 percent of seats declared so far from Sunday's election -- a huge stride in the party's long democracy struggle.

By yesterday afternoon the NLD was just 38 seats short of hitting the magical figure of 329 to claim a majority across both houses of parliament.

It appears set to smash through that marker and rack up a big majority, an outcome that appears to have prodded the conciliatory messages from the military and its political allies.
