

Nur Hossain produced before court in extortion case
Sent back to jail
OUR CORRESPONDENT, N'gani

Nur Hossain, prime accused of Narayanganj seven-murder case, was sent to jail after being produced before a court yesterday in an extortion case.
The court sent him to Kasimpur jail after hearing the case filed by Akram Hossain, owner of a packaging company at Adamjee EPZ, allegedly for demanding extortion of Tk 5 lakh from him on May 25, 2013.
The investigation officer later submitted a charge-sheet against Nur and seven others for extortion.
On April 27, Narayanganj City Corporation Councillor Nazrul Islam, his three aides and driver and senior lawyer Chandan Sarkar and his driver were abducted from a Narayanganj road. Later, their bodies were found floating in the Shitalakkhya. Nur was shown arrested in 13 cases. On November 12, he was brought back from India.

Bangladesh safest for foreigners
Says Raushan
STAFF CORRESPONDENT

Opposition Leader and Jatiya Party presidium member Raushan Ershad last night told parliament that Bangladesh was the world's safest country for foreigners for they were respected and provided security.
Pointing at related killings in Bangladesh, she said, "People are killed in the USA like birds, but people do not feel insecure there...no red alert is issued...why did they feel insecure in our country?"
Lauding her, Prime Minister Sheikh Hasina said Raushan pointed out many important issues which would help many ministers be cautious in discharging duties.

HC questions 34th BCS exam results
Asks for explanation in four weeks
STAFF CORRESPONDENT

The High Court yesterday asked the authorities concerned to explain in four weeks why the final results of the 34th Bangladesh Civil Service (BCS) examination, published on August 29, should not be declared illegal.
Irregularities, nepotism and bribery took place in selecting the candidates through the exam, the bench of Justice Naima Haider and Justice Mustafa Zaman Islam said in the rule after hearing a writ petition.
Petitioners' counsel Noor Us Sadik told The Daily Star that the Public Service Commission had violated the relevant rules because it did not publish the results based on the merit list, paving way for nepotism and irregularities. Unlike previous years, the results were published in order of the registration numbers, he said.
Chairman, members, secretary and exam controller of PSC, and secretaries to the ministries of education, finance, law and public administration were asked to respond to the rule.
Chowdhury Md Zafar Sharif and Al Masum Rifad, who passed the preliminary and written tests, but failed the viva voce, filed the writ petition with the HC seeking its order on the respondents to rerun the viva voce.

4 qualify in Sylhet
STAFF CORRESPONDENT

Four persons qualified at the Sylhet round of Rupchanda-The Daily Star Super Chef 2016, Bangladesh's biggest culinary competition, at Pallabi Community Center in the city yesterday.
Jonathon Oscar Gomes, Md Rumon Ahmed, Avhirup and Ripna Begum were adjudged winners from among 18 participants who were selected from a written test and provided Tk 500 and an hour to shop for ingredients and cook a dish in half an hour.
Didarul Islam, one of the contestants who became a sous chef after starting off his career washing dishes, commented, "The exam was not very easy."
"The question paper comprised of questions that are very useful and essential for anyone interested about or is in the culinary field in Bangladesh," he said.
The judges were the contest's past season winners Dr Umme Kulsum Chy and Jebun Nessa Khan.

Jebun Nessa Khan said, "There has always been fear and tension at this competition."
"For me, it was first the pressure as a contestant, of being judged by the experts. Now that I am a judge myself, it is now the tension of judging!" she commented.
Dr Umme Kulsum Chy said she had expected a lot more from the contestants and although some of them did very well, a lot of them prepared dishes that were rather common.
"Innovation is a key factor that is essential in the Super Chef kitchen," she said.
The regional winners will battle each other in a series of rounds and training sessions to take the title of champion who will be awarded Tk 10 lakh. The first and second runners-up will receive Tk 5 lakh and Tk 2 lakh respectively.

of the convention up to the union level.
The cabinet also approved the National Standards (Goods and Services) Policy 2015 aiming to upgrade the Bangladesh Standards and Testing Institute (BSTI) and Bangladesh Accreditation Board to international standards.
There are detailed guidelines in the policy for setting the standards of goods and services to be exported in accordance with the suggestions of the World Trade Organization (WTO).
In addition, professionals like accountants, doctors, and engineers, who are going abroad will have to go through the accreditation process as per the policy, said the cabinet secretary.
The draft policy also aims to ensure the quality of digital products like hardware and software meant for export. The European Union and NORAD provided technical assistance for framing this policy, the secretary said.
The cabinet also approved the Bangabandhu National Agriculture Award Fund Act 2015, and Bangabandhu Science and Technology Fellowship Trust Act 2015.
