

GRAPE VINE

RIYA SEN

with Nusrat Faria and Om

Granddaughter to Bengal's famous veteran actress Suchitra Sen, Riya Sen has made a mark of her own in Bengali cinema. She will be seen again in a Dhallywood production called "Hero 420". "I could not turn down the proposal. The film's banner, director, made it an irresistible opportunity. I'm so glad that I feel like I'm afloat in a wave of joy", she expressed when asked how she took this opportunity. The movie is being jointly produced by Jaaz Multimedia and S K Movies from Kolkata. It is also being directed by two directors, namely Shaikat Nasir and Shujit Mondol. Riya also said that her character is a daughter of an elegant and politically connected family, with an immaculate sense of fashion and high self esteem. Production started late last week and Riya has appeared in front of the camera early this week, co starring with Nusrat Faria and Om.

Nancy starts work for new album

There have been rumours of Nancy's new album release for quite some time. She was even supposed to release an album in the past Eid ul Azha but the work was being postponed due to various reasons. Now Nancy has actually started working on her new album and has already finished recording a couple of songs for it. About the album she has said, "Finally work has begun for the new album, however I will remain a bit busy in the coming days with my daughter. I really like one of the songs I recorded and I hope the fans will like the songs I'm coming up with."

Nancy recently performed on stage with Parvez last Monday in International Convention City, where singer Anupom Roy headlined the show.

JALALER GOLPO to be screened in Australia

Jalaler Golpo is set to be screened in Australia's Sydney, Canberra and Adelaide. Based on Abu Shahed Emon's story and screenplay; the film will premier tomorrow in Sydney's Harsville Greater Union. It is also set to be shown in Canberra on 5th, Melbourne on 6th and Adelaide on 13th December.

The story of Jalaler Golpo focuses on the harsh realities and neglected conditions a boy named Jalal grows up in. The film was released in Dhaka in early September this year, although it has been winning numerous awards in the international film circuit since 2014. The movie features music by the band Chirkutt and stars Arafat Rahman, Mosharraf Karim, Moushumi Hamid, Toukir Ahmed and Shormimala.
