ENDING VIOLENCE AGAINST WOMEN
Year long film show for youths ends

Organised with the aim to engage young people as change agents in ending violence against women and girls and raise university students' awareness on gender issues, yearlong gender seminars and documentary screenings by USAID and US-based media company Independent Television Services (ITVS) ended yesterday.

Addressing the closing ceremony, US Ambassador Marcia Stephens Bloom Bernicat said, "Young people have immense power to influence change."

She cited as an example the countrywide dialogues on treating women and girls with more dignity which were triggered by young people protesting the sexual assault on Pahela Baishakh this year.

Launched in the capital's EMK Center on December 10, International Human Rights Day, last year, the "Gender Seminar and Women of the World Film Screening Series" saw documentary screenings on accomplished women worldwide.

Meanwhile, gender issues were discussed on International Women's Day, Mother's Day, Environment Day and International Youth Day. The closing coincided with that of the "16 Days of Activism to End Violence against Women and Girls".

Mahmuda Rahman Khan, senior program development specialist, USAID, Bangladesh explained that the ITVS-developed documentaries were initially screened at secondary schools as part of USAID's Women and Girls Lead Global project in Bangladesh to promote girl's education and end child marriage.

The project was implemented in four other countries to inspire change, she said.

She said the university student were incorporated "as they will be the leaders and policymakers" and hoped the series would bring about a behavioural change. Nine documentaries dubbed in Bangla are being screened in 398 schools of nine upazilas, informed Mahmud Hasan, Bangladesh engagement coordinator, ITVS International. He said the documentaries inspired school students to find solutions for their own problems. At the closing, an ITVS-funded and locally developed documentary, "Inner Strength", depicting a father's fight against poverty to educate his daughters, was screened. ITVS funded 14 other documentaries related to issues affecting Bangladesh.

NIKO GRAFT CASE
Khaleda files appeal at SC challenging trial at lower court

BNP Chairperson Khaleda Zia yesterday filed an appeal with the Supreme Court challenging a High Court verdict that cleared the way for a lower court to run trial proceedings of Niko corruption case filed against her in 2007.

Khaleda prayed to the Appellate Division to scrap the HC judgment and trial proceedings in the case.

The apex court is yet to fix any date for hearing the appeal, Khaleda's lawyer AM Mahub Uddin Khokon told reporters.

The High Court on June 18 rejected a petition filed by Khaleda challenging the legality of the opening and proceedings of the case.

DRAFT VERDICT LEAK
SQ Chy's lawyer gets bail

The High Court yesterday granted bail to AKM Fakhru Islam, a lawyer for executed war criminal Salauddin Quader Chowdhury, for one year in a case filed for leaking draft of Salauddin's verdict a day before International Crimes Tribunal-1 delivered the judgment.

The High Court bench of Justice M Enayetur Rahim and Justice Amir Hossain passed the order after hearing a petition filed by Fakhru seeking bail in the case.

The court granted him bail as he was in custody for a long time since November 21, 2013 and two other accused - Salauddin's wife Farhat Quader Chowdhury and son Hummam Quader Chowdhury -- are now on bail in the same case, Fakhru's lawyer Sagor Hossain Leon told The Daily Star.

The ICT-1 handed down the death penalty to Salauddin for committing crimes against humanity and genocide during the Liberation War in 1971.
