

BAPPARAJ

to play a villain's role

Bapparaj set foot in Dhallywood back in 1986 through his father Nayokraj Razzak. After his debut film "Chapadangar Bou", he has appeared in over 100 films alongside almost all the greats in the modern Bangladeshi film scene. He last appeared in his own directorial venture "Kartuz" and now he has donned a look much different from what the audiences are generally familiar with.

With upturned sleeves, a colourful scarf, dark sunglasses and sporting a stylish goatee, the new Bapparaj will appear as a villain in his upcoming film "Missed Call". Speaking about the upcoming movie, he said "I find it difficult to be inspired to work nowadays. This story, however, seemed amazing and the variation in the portrayal of my character made me take up this work."

"Missed Call" is being directed by Shafiuddin Shafi and much work for the film has been completed, where Bapparaj will appear alongside Bappi and debutante Mugdhota.

Bassbaba's "Soul Food"

Music is the food for a person's soul, and with that sentiment in mind Bassbaba Sumon has named his upcoming solo album "Soul Food". Bassist and front man of the popular rock band Aurthohin, Sumon (a.k.a. Bassbaba) has come up with this new instrumental album where majority of the focus will be on the bass guitar. He has announced that extraordinary and talented musicians from around the world has helped and collaborated with him to complete his solo project.

The album is due to be released this year, and the singer-songwriter has also said that a formal press briefing will take place in upcoming February where further details about the album and the launch shall be discussed.

His band Aurthohin may also make a comeback with their new album "Cancer Nishikabbo" later in April, which will mark the band's return after over 4 years following their last album "Aushomapto 2" back in 2011.

rediscovered modelling

TV actress Orchita Sporshia has made headlines throughout the year for many sensitive and joyous news materials, and even though the actress has been starring in TV dramas on a regular basis, she will be modelling in two more projects.

She has already appeared as the model for the "Samsung Galaxy free with Pran Chutney" campaign by Pran Foods Ltd. She appears in the role of a daughter who has been caught by her parents hoarding hundreds of packets of the product in hopes of winning a Samsung Galaxy smartphone.

She will also be appearing in a music video after a long time for a song by Belal Khan and Jhilik titled "Tori Majhe". The song was released back in Eid Ul Azha last year and the shooting for the music video by Salman R Khan, took place early last month. The completed music video, starring Sporshia, is to be released in the coming Tuesday.
