

Starting off really young, Quazi Nawshaba Ahmed, popularly known as Nawshaba has already carved a niche in the industry with her creative abilities. Be it television, theatre or the big screen Nawshaba has already proved her acting ability, and has a few more productions under her belt. "I observe my surroundings acutely and derive my inspiration from every person and incident I come across," she says. This week Star Weekend chats with this young talented actress about her latest work, her favourites and much more.

Most favourite character you have ever played
IkriMikri in popular puppet show Sisimpur.

Your latest work
I have been working in a film called Dhaka Attack.

When you are not acting
I enjoy thinking to myself and watching my daughter grow up.

When you are stuck in traffic
I hum songs and keep thinking about whatever comes in my mind.

Recipe of being a good actor
Being a good and fair person is very important. Apart from having a skillset, having human qualities helps every actor to endeavour to do better.

A dream yet to be fulfilled
I want to go for a world tour and spend some part of my life on a hill station where I will have my home library, garden full of flowers and serenity.

HOLLY GOLIGHTLY
Beautiful and talented Audrey Hepburn playing 'Holly Golightly' with her simple, elegant, iconic, black satin gown with a beautiful low-cut back, which was worn with long, black satin gloves in the movie 'Breakfast at Tiffany's' (1961), is still a fashion icon.
