

Finding Tenzing

Tenzing Chakma is a renowned fashion designer, known for being the first person to bring branding to Adivasi textiles. His pieces are in high demand and are loved all over Bangladesh.

He commissions weavers from Rangapani, which is a satellite village in Rangamati and a hub for waist-loom weaving - a cultural and business practice of their ancestral heritage where designs have been passed down over generations through weaving into the products. The waist-loom weavers are self-employed entrepreneurs who work on their weaving as a side job.
