 protect the rights of Hindus.

Hindu people, particularly women and children, are being deprived of human and constitutional rights, and many women and children are not getting the right to properties and even recognition of marriage due to absence of a complete marriage registration law, said the release.

A Hindu woman has no right to divorce her husband even if she faces violence and deprivation, and her husband takes many wives, the release said, adding that it even caused sufferings to men as well.

The release said the implementation of the law had become difficult, as marriage registration was made voluntary.

In the last one year, MJF's associate organisations have helped to complete registration of more than 1,500 Hindu marriages, it added.
