

MURDER SPARKS OUTRAGE

THE murder of Shohagi Jahan Tonu, 19, a second year student of history at Comilla Victoria College on March 20, triggered a nationwide protest. People especially the young have been enraged by what they say negligence in arresting anyone in connection with the murder of Tonu, whose body was found only a few hundred yards away from her cantonment home. Protesters have taken to the streets, blocked Shahbagh intersection, wore black badges, formed a human chain, and held a long march to Comilla demanding justice for the killing of the teenager.
