

Emily Blunt, Josh Brolin to return in SICARIO 2

Actors Emily Blunt, Benicio Del Toro and Josh Brolin will reprise their roles in the upcoming sequel to the 2015 film "Sicario", the producers of the crime-thriller have confirmed. The film's producers - Molly Smith, Trent Luckinbill and Thad Luckinbill - have confirmed that a sequel is in "full development." "Sicario 2" will be written by Taylor

Sheridan, the actor who also wrote the first film. Confirming the returning cast, Luckinbill said, "We can't reveal the plot, but you'll see (Blunt, Del Toro and Brolin) all come back. You have such a great character with Benicio, who was as dark as he was and still so loved. That character resonates so well with audiences."

I am a feminist: Chris Hemsworth

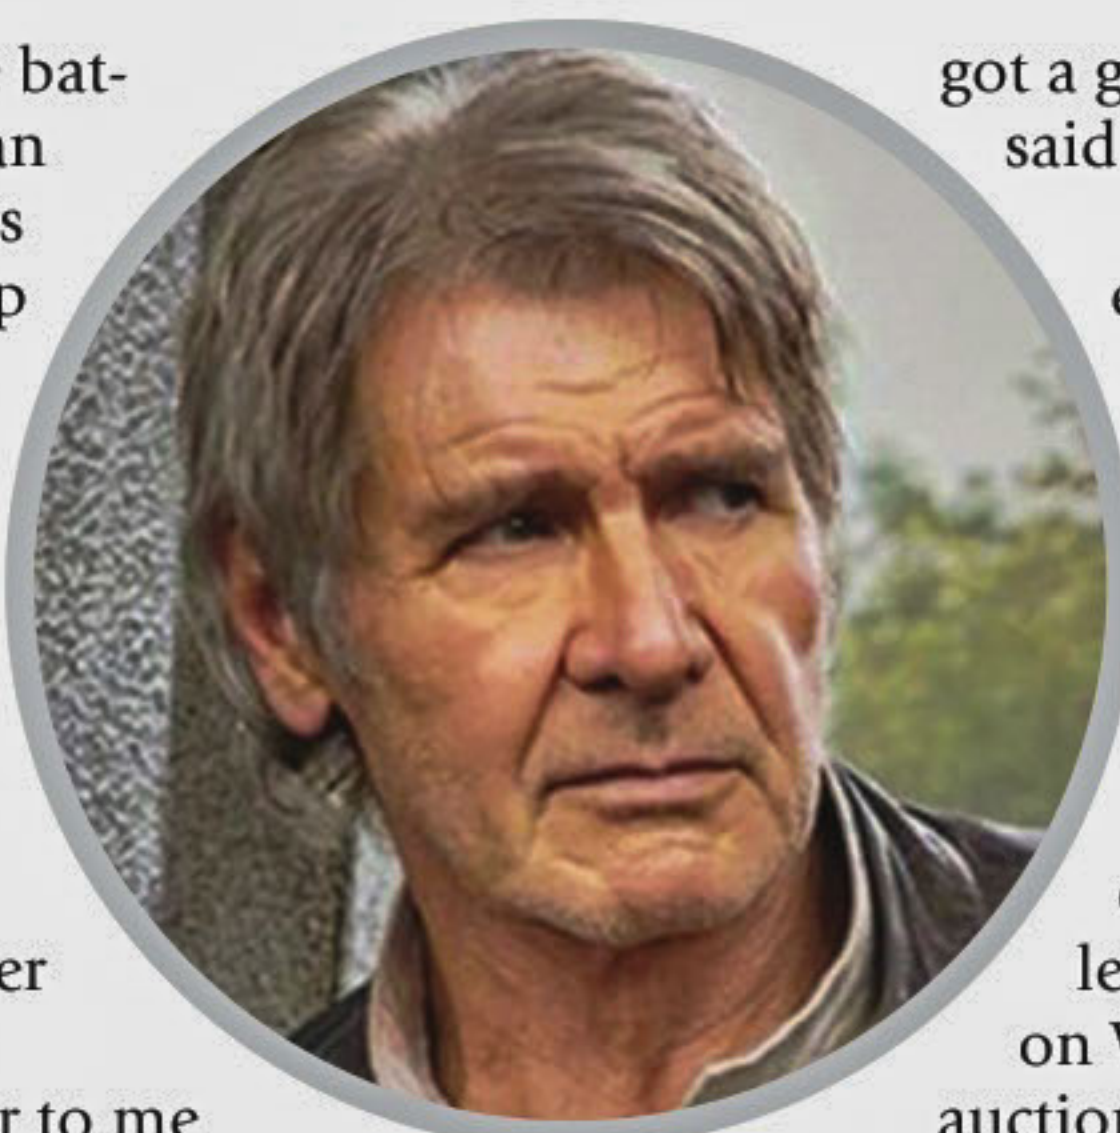

"Thor" star Chris Hemsworth says he considers himself a feminist and has praised his parents for the "positive influences" they have made in his life. The 32-year-old actor says his mother instilled a "lot of respect for women" in him and has praised her and his father for the "positive influence" they have made in his life. "My mum's a big feminist. I think that my views on things, as far as respect for women and so on, came from my mum. My dad has a very balanced and respectful view on a lot of things too. They were huge positive influences in my life," he added.

Hemsworth is thrilled to be starring in "The Huntsman: Winter's War" because it features a number of strong female characters played by the likes of Jessica Chastain, Emily Blunt and Charlize Theron.

FORD DONATES HAN SOLO'S JACKET

Harrison Ford has put the battered jacket he wore as Han Solo in the latest Star Wars film up for auction to help a cause close to his heart. He signed and donated the item to help raise money for research into epilepsy - a condition he revealed his daughter Georgia Ford has. "I hope this jacket will provide some means to further that exploration. This is a cause that is near and dear to me and unlike the cynical Han Solo, I've got a good feeling about this," he said.

Ford told reporters earlier in March that his daughter Georgia, 26, had suffered seizures since she was a child and that doctors at the Langone Medical Center had finally diagnosed epilepsy as the cause eight years ago. Bidding for the leather jacket stood at $34,000 on Wednesday and the online auction continues until 11 April at website IfOnly.com/HanSolo.

