300 pry schools in Jessore have no headmaster

MOHSIN MILON, Benapole
The posts of headmaster at 300 government primary schools in Jessore district are vacant, disrupting academic and office work. Of the 1,285 government primary schools in eight upazilas of the district, 985 have regular headmasters, sources at the office of the district primary education officer (DPEO) said.

master of Dihi Government Primary School, said six teachers, including a regular headmaster, are needed to impart lessons properly to 350 students of the school. "As there is no headmaster, I'm working as acting headmaster. Often I have to remain outside the school for programmes in upazila and district offices. Then our four assistant teachers find it difficult to manage all the classes," he added.

As per government rules, 65 percent of the headmasters are appointed through promotion of senior teachers and the remaining 35 percent are directly appointed, said teachers and officials. Due to various complexities in the promotion system and a lack of initiative for direct appointment, the headmaster posts of 300 schools have remained vacant for one to five years.

who are against the festival. "The culture of fear will be promoted through this." The state is doing nothing against those who are doing the politics of attack and killing, rather it is asking progressive-minded people to go backward, Sultana Kamal added.

Jinat Ara Hoque, another member of the Jote, said the government should take more security measures like ensuring proper lighting and installing watch towers instead of telling people to go home from public places, including Suhrawardy Uddyan and Ramna Batamul.

son Sumon have diarrhoea. The boy has improved but the baby girl hasn't. She has become very feeble in the last few days," said one Taslima Akhtar. The 29-year-old woman, who lives with her family in Dakshin Khan area, was talking to this correspondent at the International Centre for Diarrhoeal Disease Research, Bangladesh (icddr,b) at Mohakhali in the capital yesterday.

was 465 and it was 445 the next day. The hospital authorities said usually they provide treatment to around 250 to 300 such patients at a time. But the number goes up to between 400 and 500 during March-May. Apart from blaming it on the sweltering heat, doctors also pointed out that diarrhoea causes mainly due to the consumption of contaminated water and food. Dr Azharul Islam Khan, head of the diarrhoeal diseases unit at the icddr,b, said many poor people, especially those living in the slums, drink unsafe water and street juice to keep themselves hydrated in hot weather. In high temperature, many food items also get easily contaminated with harmful bacterium. He said people should drink boiled and safe water all the time. Before eating, they should wash their food if that is kept in refrigerators, he suggested. Everyone should wash their hands after using toilets and before taking meals. Once anyone has diarrhoea, he or she must have oral saline, advised the doctor. "If things get worse, the person must see a doctor immediately."
