

FROM CENTREFOLD

If you wear a lot of makeup then you may want a large nose ring to complement the look whereas a small nath can be used if the makeup done is light. Maharasthrian naths which are designed with gemstones and pearls go hand in hand with gorgeous saris.

Coming to a more conventional look, the small dot of diamond or precious stone goes with more or less every outfit, be it a shalwar kameez or a fatua. Some girls love wearing small and simple naths with Western outfits, which creates a very bold look. Styling the nose pins with the outfits you wear is necessary. Otherwise the look that you want to go for can go totally wrong.

WHERE TO FIND THEM

In Bangladesh the market for nose pins is popular among both unmarried and married women. One can order nose pins as per the designs they have in mind from different gold stores. Other than that, scintillating nose pins of different designs and shapes can be found in Diamond World and KZ.

A plethora of shops in Genetic Plaza and Bashundhara City sells both expensive and cheap nose pins.

Aarong has a very unique collection of nose pins. You can also hit the stores in Banani 11. New Market is flooded with brass and copper nose rings but these metals should be avoided as they could react to the skin causing skin infection. Since the nose is one of the most sensitive areas of our body, nose rings made of synthetic stones should not be worn.

Nose pins add a very sensational touch to a women's face. It brings out a certain level of maturity in their faces and turns a girl into a woman. I would always go for a look that includes accessorising my nose, any day, every day.
