

Gwen Stefani can't believe she is dating Blake Shelton

Singer Gwen Stefani says she feels blessed and can't believe that she is actually dating country star Blake Shelton. The 'Used to Love You' hitmaker gushed about her 39-year-old singer boyfriend, "I'm our biggest fan. I actually feel like I'm not in my own life, because I'm not. I'm in a different life all of a sudden. I'm so blessed and I feel like I believe in my path. Now there are all these miracles around me!"

Stefani said.

The Voice coaches started dating following their respective splits from Gavin Rossdale and Miranda Lambert. "There was so much of an earthquake in my life. How did I survive that? I don't know, but here we are and my life is full of so many blessings. I'm trying to really just be positive and grateful and look at it all like this was all supposed to happen," she said.

ANGELINA JOLIE in early talks for 'Murder on the Orient Express' remake

Actress Angelina Jolie is in early talks to star in Fox Studios' remake of "Murder on the Orient Express." Actor-director Kenneth Branagh is helming the project and will also star as Hercule Poirot.

The producers are Branagh, Ridley Scott, Simon Kinberg and Mark Gordon. Michael Green is writing the screenplay based on Agatha Christie's novel.

Published in 1934, the novel revolves around a murder on-board the famous train. The film follows Belgian detective Poirot, who is handling the case, in which a number of passengers could potentially be the murderer.

The movie is a remake of Sidney Lumet's 1974 film, which starred Albert Finney as the genius detective investigating the murder. The all-star cast of suspects included Lauren Bacall, Ingrid Bergman, Jacqueline Bisset, Colin Blakely, Sean Connery, John Gielgud, Anthony Perkins, Vanessa Redgrave and Michael York.

CHRIS MARTIN'S surprise performance at cancer hospital

Rocker Chris Martin stopped by a cancer treatment centre in Manchester and performed with YOU 62, the hospital's charity band consisting of staff and patients from the Young Oncology Unit.

Coldplay later gave the hospital band a shout out during their performance of "The Scientist" at Manchester's Etihad Stadium. "Earlier today we saw another young band called YOU 62 and they played 'The Scientist' for us," said Martin. "These are some kids that have been through some really heavy stuff in their lives. One of the best things I ever saw was them playing our song back to us. I want to dedicate this to them and send it out to all those kids who are going through those hardships" he added.
