

Fashion is a living and breathing concept that requires constant care, nurturing and cultivation. Otherwise it fails to make an impact. Some of us have that one friend who is constantly reinventing her personal style, and in the process inspires those around. She is the gracious one; a melodious swan among other lesser quacking ducks.

