EXTORTION FROM CATTLE TRADERS Not rampant, but it's there

HELEMUL ALAM

Extortionists intercepted cattle-laden trucks in the city's Hazaribagh and Mohammadpur Beribadh areas and forced traders to take sacrificial animals to particular markets earlier this week.

They even physically assaulted some traders for not following their instruction, traders alleged.

A few traders managed to reach markets of their choice after paying extortion money.

A similar problem was confronted by some traders in the Padma when they were carrying animals on a trawler at Kamolaghat of Munshiganj. A group of thugs tried to take their cattle to a market in the district, said traders.

Traders, however, did not face any problem on highways. Md Nazir Ali along with some other traders has brought 20 bulls from Harinakunda of Jhenidah to Dhupkhola cattle market, one of the 23 makeshift markets in the city.

He said some youths beat them up in Hazaribagh on Tuesday to force them to unload their cattle from the truck there.

"The youths swooped on us when we refused to unload cattle in Hazaribagh. We could leave the place following intervention by some cops, but it was only after having paid policemen Tk 2,000," added Nazir.

And that was not all. He had to appease some youths at Mohammadpur Beribadh by paying them Tk 1,000.

"Like most of the cattle traders from Harinakunda, I have been bringing sacrificial animals to Dhupkhola for 15 years," said Nazir.

Abdus Sabur took his first step on the road to militancy as he started listening to the sermons of detained spiritual leader of Ansarullah Bangla Team (ABT) Mufi Muhammad Jasimuddin Rahmani on his mobile phone three years ago.

By last year, Sabur himself became such a key person in militant circle that his fellows sought his blessings before going to kill blogger-writer Avijit Roy on Dhaka University campus on February 26.

In his confessional statement under Section 164 of the Code of Criminal Procedure (CrPC), given before a magistrate yesterday, Sabur confessed training the militants who hacked to death Faisal Arefin Dipan of Jagriti

Teenager makes fortune naming Chinese babies

MIRROR.CO.UK

A British schoolgirl has made £50k after creating a website that has helped over 200,000 Chinese parents chose English names for their babies.

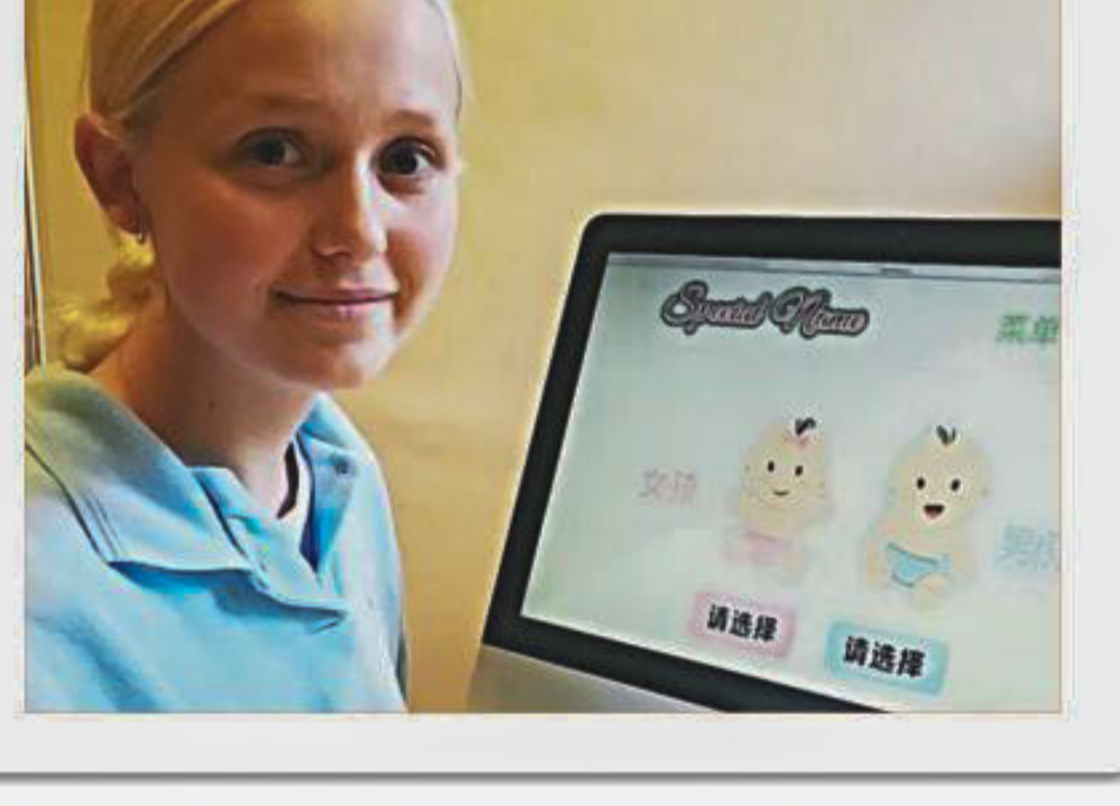

Beau Jessup, 16, came up with the idea for specialname.cn after being asked to name a family friend's child on a trip to China.

There is a huge demand for the service because many Chinese parents want their kids to have a Western pseudonym.

They believe having a traditional English name, which is easy to pronounce, read and write, will increase their chance of getting jobs and university places abroad.

But restricted access to the internet in China

Reinstate the recognition of 2,367 guerrilla force members

HC to govt

STAFF CORRESPONDENT

The High Court yesterday directed the government to recognise 2,367 members of a special guerrilla force, who participated in the 1971 Liberation War, as freedom fighters.

Responding to a writ petition, it declared illegal the government's decision voiding recognition of the guerrilla fighters as freedom fighters on October 29, 2014 and ordered the government to give them status, dignity and facilities on a par with freedom fighters.

The special guerrilla force was formed with leaders and activists of the National Awami Party (NAP), Communist Party and Chhatra Union after Bangabandhu Sheikh Mujibur Rahman declared independence of the country on March 26, 1971, said petitioner's lawyer Subrata

The investigation agency of the International Crimes Tribunal yesterday expressed dissatisfaction with law enforcers' failure to arrest the fugitives in the war crimes cases.
