An artist draws inspiration from the nature around him; it is his circumstances and surroundings that determine the contents of his canvas.

The adept artist makes good use of such things, to learn from them and employ them as his imaginative mind deems fit. And this notion goes for all forms of art, including fashion design.

This week Star Lifestyle puts the spotlight on one such fashion designer, Md Amir Hossain Rangan, who envisions to reincarnate the once glorious jute industry of Bangladesh, through his jute-made clothes.
