DURGA

in my neighbourhood

The sights of the gorgeous white fluffy clouds up in the pristine blue sky, and the expanses of Kashphool (Kans grass) littering the green landscapes are all nature's way of welcoming one of the biggest events in the calendar; Durga Puja.

It is the annual visit of Ma Durga and her divine children to our world. It marks her victory against the evil buffalo demon Mahishasura. This festival serves as an ode to the classic triumph of good over evil in a surreal explosion of vibrant colours and lights.

For the next 10 days, devotees will throng to their temples in search of peace, prayer, and togetherness.

We are all aware of all the happenings in and around the temples across the city, but rarely do we see the community based celebrations that would occur in some neighbourhoods where the Hindu majority is high. Anyone who's been to India during Durga puja will know the vibrancy, enthusiasm, and intensity with
