Where them fields at?

When I was a kid, we used to have Friday morning football matches every single week. Nowadays, you can't even find space for a futsal match. What happened?

Have we forgotten the importance of having open spaces for our kids in favour of more living spaces? #UnplannedUrbanisationProblems We're losing many of the things that used to be staple parts of our lives. I seldom see actual big-field football tournaments being held. A lot of us shifted to gaming as an outlet for our competitive nature. But it's not the same. You just can't beat the tension, the frustration, and the euphoria of playing a cracker of a football game on a winter morning. I might be suffering from nostalgiatitis but back in the day [early 2000s], things were better.

APP REVIEW

UNIFIED REMOTE

MAKING LIFE EASIER FOR THE LAZIES

AZMIN AZRAN

Platforms: iOS, Android

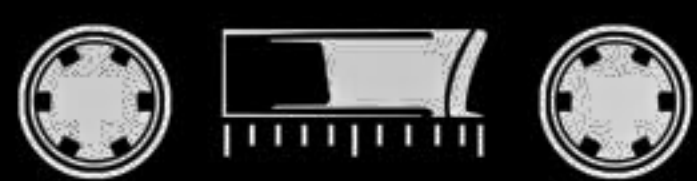

If you do most of your work at home on your desktop computer, and you're one of those lazy people who like lying down a lot, Unified Remote could be the solution to all your problems (not the health related ones).

It's a very simple tool that allows you to control your PC from your smartphone as long as they are connected to the same WiFi network. If you have the app installed on your phone and the desktop application installed on your PC (where you can password protect it), a quick scan from the mobile app will track down the PCs connected to the network and allow you to choose.

Unified Remote basically has a collection of remotes for executing different commands on your PC, for instance, there's the 'basic input' remote that turns your phone screen to a touch pad that works like a mouse attached to your PC. The file manager remote is handy if you want to play music from one corner of your room but are not willing to get up and walk five paces.

The free version of the app (available on Android/iOS) offers 5 different remotes, the basic input, file manager, keyboard, media, and power.
