KHADI

- A link to our past

Khadi, a testament to our country's past, has stood its ground for many years, proving to all of us that old truly is gold.

Besides being a green product, what makes khadi so unique and resilient? The magical fabric is exclusive because it keeps the wearer warm in winter and cool in summer.

And, global warming being a serious concern today, it has become imperative that we conserve energy in every viable way. Khadi being eco-friendly, green, and sustainable, seems to provide answers to all our questions. The garb is made from pure cotton, which is later spun and woven manually, without any electrical support.

With all the initiatives set in motion towards reviving the Khadi, it is no longer a delusion to hope that our skilled weavers will become empowered, once again, weaving the 'dream cloth'.
