...Pt. Birju Maharaj

ZAHANGIR ALAM

Legendary Kathak maestro Pt. Birju Maharaj is a name revered and acclaimed all over the world. A leading exponent and torchbearer of the Kalka-Bindadin Gharana of Lucknow, he is the only son and disciple of Achhan Maharaj. The living legend is now in Dhaka to inaugurate a three-day Kathak Dance Festival, organised by Kathak Nritya Sampraday. This correspondent caught up with the maestro yesterday at the end of a seminar. Pt. Birju Maharaj will be on Chhayanaut stage today with his senior-most disciple Saswati Sen for a jugalbandi performance.

Your dance is said to transcend mathematical aspects of rhythm and become visual poetry. What is your secret to that?

Birju Maharaj: It depends on the pure heart. It creates in your eyes and every part of the body. And when we think of switching on the light, the flow starts working in the body. The rangmanch (stage) is a vast canvas and we depict paintings on stage, using all types of colours. The expression of your eyes will create those colours. It also depends on how you involve your heart to think of your art. I am myself, I am there on stage. No disturbance will tilt me.

You are a poet, a singer, musician, painter and above all a legendary dance artiste. How do you connect all these arts forms?

Birju Maharaj: First of all, I learned dance and this is the big light for me. I perform all the things which are related to music and dance. I can play tabla, pakhawaj, sarod, and flute. Art is vast. If you can catch it, you will find no difference in you and the art.

What comes first to you when composing a new piece? Is it a mathematical combination of rhythms or your emotions and your instant artistic thoughts?

Birju Maharaj: Both aspects are required for doing the job. I am a singer and painter as well. As a visual poet and painter, I can make people happy and cry through displaying my arts.

How will you evaluate the practice of classical dance and your students in Bangladesh?

Pt. Birju Maharaj: I think they are doing great. I do not only teach dance, but also make them learn how one can keep one's heart beautiful through loving thyself and others. If you just love yourself, everything will come to you.

NABANNO FESTIVAL in Chapainawabganj

RABIUL HASAN, Chapainawabganj

It was a different day for women including girl and children of Baburhonne village under Rohonpur municipal area in Gomostapur upazila of Chapainawabganj district, as they arranged a Nabanno festival with pitha and 'meyeli geet' to preserve rural culture and heritage. Rural women arranged the Nabanno Utsab (Festival of Harvest) on Saturday.

Women and girls of all ages passed a busy day, crushing paddy by 'dheki' and also crushing rice by 'jata', and collecting water from Punorhoba River, singing traditional songs called 'meyeli geet'. After completing the arrangements, they sat around a clay oven, making pitha (traditional cakes and sweets).

Baburhonne village is situated on the bank of Punorhoba River. Momta Begum, a teacher of Uttar Rohonpur Government Primary School arranged all the programmes with the help of local women. She took the initiative five years ago to celebrate the rural culture.

The songs they sang have been traditionally passed on from generations orally, and sung during this festival. There are specific songs for crushing the rice into flour (dhan bhanger geet) or for bringing water from the river (jol anar geet).

Once upon a time, women sang these songs in their leisurely hours, to express their feelings and emotions, said Momta Begum.

The pitha made at the festival were distributed among people.
