LOOKING BACK AT 2016

ELITA KARIM

As we all try our best to look forward to the New Year – make lists of things to do (better!), to read more, lose weight – in a nutshell, be a better person – we can't help but take a sneak peak at the past. Turn to pages 7-9 and take a look at 10 Star Weekend stories published in the last one year, that we believe have changed us for the better.

On a brighter note, the Star Weekend team would like to wish you a happy new 2017!

3 THE BEAUTY OF PERFORMANCE ARTS

Talks about how the art scene of Bangladesh has seen an emergence of a good number of performance artists, who have been aiming to take art to the general public.

4 THE QUEEN'S YOUNG LEADERS 2017

Talks about two young Bangladeshi entrepreneurs and change-makers, who have recently won the Queen's Young Leaders Programme for 2017.

12 TOTA MIAH'S 'NIRIBILI'

Is about a very remote but popular Bengali cuisine, which offers a total of 100 traditional food items-- including 70 items of traditional Bhortas, 30 items of curries and much more!

13 DHAKA'S PANDORA'S BOX

Talks about Dhaka's New Market, the most popular place for shopping as well as recreation.
