

Enter the MAN CAVE

If you are done being a frat boy, it is time to get rid of your Ipod Nano and your beanie bags and design a Man Cave befitting a distinguished gentleman as yourself. A Man Cave is a man's personal space; a designated room for you to relax, mansplain everything without hesitation, and rightfully take up your man-space, maximizing the utility derived from everything around you.

I would like to say 'No Girls Allowed', but good-looking men like us cannot have such limiting rules. So, what do you need for your Man Cave? A few of these choice elements -

WICKED VINYL

Nothing says classy and sophisticated like some good old fashioned vinyl. What real men do and don't do depends on us, the real men, and not on society but one thing for certain is that real men listen to real music, none of that digital horror. Vinyl always has superior sound, better than any other music device, and as a music lover you need to show some love.

RECLINE TO UNWIND

Get a few sleek looking leather recliners or lounge chairs. Real men do not sit in plastic chairs. They do, obviously, but if you have the means then you should not. A leather recliner lets you relax like no other and relaxed in good company is a wonderful disposition to have wonderful conversations.

Men talk too, except we like important topics and an environment conducive to meaningful discussions about politics we will not do, business deals we do not have and women we cannot get. The good stuff.
