

Unfortunate Names

In a world where everyone strives to be unique, some have the misfortune of having their parents getting too creative with their names in order to make them unique no matter what. Sometimes, they can lead to distinguishable names that help people recognize the person in question easily. However, most of the cases can end in disaster. I mean how'd you introduce yourself if you were Quinton de Kock? Sometimes I get ridiculed by people for my Bollywood-esque name. A majority of the people in my workplace call me SRK even though those aren't my initials. It's a tough life, living with it and I feel you guys who have been blessed (!) with these unique names.
