

MILLENNIAL FALGUN

Pushing through the Pahela Falgun Shahbagh traffic at 9AM, I kept wondering what was up. That's when the flower nation attacked. It takes me a good few hours to wake up in the mornings, and as such, I forgot about Pahela Falgun. Imagine yourself suddenly invaded by the thralls of an alien nation. That's what it felt like thanks to each and every girl wearing the same saree, the same colour and the same flower crown. You'd imagine that Snapchat would quench the flower crown thirst already but no. It got worse. Ain't nothing so bad as a vulgar display of flower.
