

Knowledge of IT for All

STAFF CORRESPONDENT

ACC IT Club recently brought to the students, the 2nd ACC IT Carnival, powered by The Daily Star. With sheer determination, the club successfully completed its first day programme, which was followed by two more enthralling days of programmes. The first day was the opening ceremony of the carnival; the Principal, along with the staff inaugurated the event by cutting a cake. It was followed by a rugged gaming competition. The second day was an agglomeration of 11 segments, in which students from all around Dhaka participated spontaneously.

The events that took place are briefly introduced: "Programming Contest", where the platform of the contest was vjudge.net with acceptable languages C/C++ and participants had to use CodeBlocks for programming. In "Gaming Competition" there were 3 games - COD 4, FIFA 17, and NFS Most Wanted. The gamers were most excited among all participants. In "IT Olympiad", participants gave a written test related to the topic. In "IT Quiz Competition", teams had to sit for a written exam on IT questions. "IT Project Display" was a segment designated for the propagation of students' sense of aesthetics, creativity and inventiveness. In "Static Website Display", each team had to make a static website with 3 web pages. In "Mobile Gaming Competition", students played the popular game "Subway Surfer" on mobile devices. In "Extempore speech on IT", participants presented instant speeches on topics related to IT. In "Wall Magazine", participants brought colourful and decorated wall magazines based on selected topics. In "Digital Art display", participants presented IT-based digital art. In "Search IT", the skill of using the Internet efficiently was examined. The events took place with full cooperation of the respected Principal, teachers, organisers, volunteers, participants and visitors without which the whole fest would never have been possible.

One of the highlights of the second day was the seminar when Naveed Mahbub, comedian and columnist at The Daily Star, entertained all with his funny and encouraging thoughts. The third day was the final showdown - Salman Muqtadir and his friends joined in on the festivities, adding much attraction to the programme. The gaming finals were held on the same day.

The closing ceremony dictated the speeches of chief guest Major General Md. Salahuddin Miaji, rcds, psc, Vice Chancellor of BUP; the Principal of ACC, and the Moderator of IT Club. A full presentation of the carnival was presented. The carnival was brought to an end with a prize giving ceremony.

Wrapping it up, there remained no doubts about the effects of the 2nd ACC IT Carnival on the minds of the young students, which successfully introduced and established the ethics of IT in them.

Guide To Successfully Repressing All Your Feelings

TASNIM ODRIKA

Did you ever ask someone out and get rejected brutally? Did you ever open up to a friend just to have your feelings completely dismissed like the rest of the members of Maroon 5? Here is a solution to never having to experience any of that again.

Don't tell people what goes on in that little head of yours. No one can disappoint you if you don't talk to anyone. *Insert Roll Safe meme*.

Did your friends forget to invite you to a hangout and then you go on Instagram to find everyone posting pictures with the caption, "#WHOLESTQUAD"? So, when they call you to apologise (if they call) tell them that it's fine and that you were busy that day anyway, while a single tear trickles down your cheek. Now play "Everybody Hurts" on repeat while you cry yourself to sleep.

You know how Barney Stinson said, "Whatever you do in this life, it's not legendary, unless your friends are there to see it"? It could also be interpreted to mean that if your friends aren't there to see it happen, it did not happen. So, when you finally muster enough courage to tell the guy you've been drooling over for the past 6 months how you feel, only to get a "Thank you" in response, tell him "You're welcome". Then, when your best friend asks, "Hey, whatever happened with you and that guy Steve that you liked?" reply, "Steve who?"

Deal with the hurt and pain by crying yourself to sleep...again.

Did your significant other declare, "It's not working out anymore", and that you should just remain friends? Tell them that you never loved them in the first place and that everything is cool.

In short, if anything causes you distress or woe, there is no need to vocalise it like a normal person. Deny everything. Let it eat you from the inside while you form deep seated resentments towards every human being you interact with.

One last piece of advice, don't be me.
