

JOLIE

Addresses Pitt

After the September split of Hollywood power couple Angelina Jolie and Brad Pitt, the world went through a shock. Jolie, in a sit-down interview with BBC World News that aired Sunday, opened up about the "very difficult time" her family endured in the months following Brad and Angelina's highly-publicized breakup. In the interview, the humanitarian and good will ambassador said, "My focus is my children, our children, and my focus is finding this way through," Angelina added. "We are and forever will be a family. I am coping with finding a way through to make sure that this somehow makes us stronger," she further said.

Source: Internet

WHAT'S UP

with PewDiePie?

According to the Wall Street Journal, YouTube and Maker Studios of Disney decided to cut business ties with Felix Kjellberg AKA PewDiePie, after it was found that nine of his videos featured anti-semitic content. YouTube canceled Felix's original show on Red and removed him from Google's preferred ad network. A large percentage of the internet population has been criticizing this move by WSJ, YouTube and Maker Studios, and claimed that PewDiePie's videos were severely taken out of context. The YouTube king, since then, has apologized in his video about him not knowing how to make jokes and even shed a tear for all the people that supported him through the crisis. PewDiePie currently has over 53 million subscribers and is much loved by his dedicated fan-base.

Source: Internet

Louis Tomlinson & Eleanor Calder Back Together?

One of the Directioners, Louis Tomlinson has been criticized on many things but never his love life. After almost a two year halt, Louis Tomlinson and Eleanor Calder are giving love another chance. The 25-year old musician went on to date The Originals actress, Danielle Campbell, but they split up late last year, just weeks after Louis's mother had tragically passed away.

"Eleanor reached out to Louis following the death of his mom and she proved to be an absolute help to him throughout a real time of need," a source told to a daily. The source also confirmed that Louis is looking into spending forever with Eleanor this time around.

Source: Internet