

BROKEN HEARTS AND BROKEN RELATIONS

Where some try to mend the bridges of their ex, others feud over the beginning of new relationships. And some are just left picking up the pieces. This week, Hollywood is getting to see more truth behind the picture perfect relationships of the stars. Katy Perry has opened up about her split from Orlando Bloom in a recent Twitter outburst. She said that no one is a victim or a villain in their breakup. Miley Cyrus and Liam Hemsworth seem to be having problems over their prenuptial, just ahead of their wedding. Brad Pitt recently explained how he has been increasingly attentive to his children as he wants them to have a normal childhood after their parents' divorce.

EMMA WATSON'S PRIVATE PHOTOS LEAKED?

The "Beauty and the Beast" actress, who is also the UN Women Goodwill Ambassador, was upset with her invasion of privacy when her personal photos were leaked. Emma was appalled by the audacity and has a bone to pick with the hacker. Now, she is pursuing a legal action against the breach of privacy. We cannot say that the news is a big shocker, since the actress had previously faced threats of leaked explicit images in 2014. Emma also received flak from critics recently, saying that by exposing her breasts, she's acting against her feminist values when she posed semi-topless for a shoot for the cover of the magazine Vanity Fair.

CASEY'S SIDE OF THE STORY

In 2010 two women working on Affleck's experimental film "I'm Still Here" filed sexual harassment suits against Casey Affleck. Where one of the women claimed that Affleck crawled into her bed without her consent, the other woman said that Casey forced her to stay the night in a hotel room by grabbing her arm. Hence, when the brother of Ben Affleck was awarded the 'Best Actor' at the Oscars for his film

"Manchester by the Sea", the Academy faced their fair share of backlashes. Affleck in his defence said in an interview with The Boston Globe, "I believe that any kind of mistreatment of anyone for any reason is unacceptable and abhorrent, and everyone deserves to be treated with respect in the workplace and anywhere else."
