

SEASONS

It's like the city is out to get us all. First we had the dry winter which brought along with it dust storms, and only 4 days of actual winter in the capital. Then we got that winter to spring transition period in which there was sweltering heat. Now, we have to deal with the changing seasons because it rains every other day. I've had a cold since February and it's not going away because of all this. Please weather, be kind. Let me breathe properly again.
