

Le Reve launches 9 to 9 office wear

We spend a huge chunk of our time in the office. And office wear does not simply reflect your style and personality, it also says a lot about how professional you are, as you are what you wear!

From business meetings to presentations to parties on the evenings, office wear should be trendy and very comfortable – so that you excel in style.

Le Reve has just launched its exclusive 'work & after work wear' collection specially designed for all working women in Bangladesh, who would prefer to wear something which is comfortable, subtle and yet contemporary in trend. The work wear collection for women is a must try-out for all young professionals. The ensemble features attires which suit each and every individual work environment and fashion quotient.

Monnujan Nargis, Director, Design & Creative, Le Reve said, "We always think of doing something different and new for our customers. What happens when a woman is getting ready for office? First she thinks of what she should wear today. We have tried to design something different for them as office wear. And office wear is a tricky choice at times, so when we conceptualised the design, we carefully selected the fabric, and adopted simple and unique patterns, colours, simple motifs and prints."

So if you often wonder what would be fashionable, stylish, and professional at the same time, Le Reve's 9 to 9 is your answer.

The new launch includes tunic, long shirts, short shirts and a few pants which is made in cotton, linen and viscose fabrics. As the wardrobe is about office wear, the colours used are white, yellow, olive, biscuit, Prussian blue, navy blue, black and different pastel shade of colours.

9 to 9 collection is made using mostly different symmetric and plain cut motifs which adhere to present international trends. For men, Le Reve has formal shirts, polos and pants.

The 9 to 9 dresses can be worn in office and after-office parties with friends. The collection, which is beautifully designed and made with comfort in mind, is perfect for office wear and parties afterwards.
