

It's a Tough Job

Now that Dhaka is cyberpunk dystopia levels of overcrowded, no one stops to think about the ghosts. Yes, they do exist and they also have depression worse than the 13-year-olds who think no one understands them. Ghosts don't have the comfort of picking prime real estate any longer. Gone are the days of derelict homes. It's all about the ARCHITECTURE now. Puran Dhaka ghost population has already hit critical mass and cannot accommodate any more. Now all you have are multi-storeyed eye-escaping skyscrapers named after random Italian or Spanish words. Trying to scare someone inside an apartment complex called El Alcantarillado just doesn't have the same if any effect at all. Think about them. #GhostLivesMatter
