Message from the Vice Chancellor

It is a great pleasure for me to express my felicitations for the fresh graduates of BBA, MBA and EMBA batches. On this auspicious occasion, we celebrate your persistence, perseverance and unwavering resolve- all of which has led you onto the path of success. Let this day be the epitome of how hard work can propel you towards your dreams and ambitions.

This hard-earned milestone is not just your achievement; it is the labour of all the people in your life. Do everything possible to maintain this momentum of success. Even at the expense of your comfort or benefit, taking the road most difficult and less travelled is often the wisest choice.

Now that you have stepped into the challenging world, the path to success will become ominous at every turn. But it is your duty, to carry the legacy of IBA forward and overcome every obstacle. All those people who have played a part in shaping- your parents, teachers, members of the staff and the nation itself- look forward to your strides ahead.

University of Dhaka takes great pride in the fact that this university has served as the alma mater of brilliant minds who have shaped our nation. You are now a part of the rich history. IBA graduates have been exemplary in contributing to the country's prosperity. So, we look to you with great hopes and expectations to bear forth your alma mater's heritage and serve for the wellbeing of our nation.

I want to congratulate every faculty member and staff of IBA whose guidance and inspiration has molded your aspirations. I hope IBA continues to deliver the teaching standard the institution is well-known for and provide an atmosphere of excellence. Congratulations to all the graduates once again.

Message from the Pro Vice Chancellor (Academic)

Since its inception, the University of Dhaka with its almost 100 years of heritage has continuously defined excellence through its students, faculty and research engagements; and along with it, a much younger appendage, the Institute of Business Administration has equally contributed significantly with its pool of talented faculty, students and alumni to our overall success. Hence, it gives me immense pleasure today to see another batch of brilliant minds graduating.

Over the period of the last 50 years, IBA has produced a great number of graduates who have gone on to shape the corporate world with their expertise, change drives and stamina. And in my personal capacity, I too have encountered many to have this potential. I expect this potential will be used to the fullest not only in the upcoming phases and challenges of their life but also to bring positive changes to the society and nation.

On this momentous occasion, I have a few words for the graduating batch: the time you have spent at University of Dhaka has prepared you for the next stage of your life. You are taking away values and knowledge that were not just imparted by your esteemed teachers but also shared by your friends and the place itself! The culture of your institute has also imbibed in you the moral principles and norms that will remain with you forever. It is the culmination of all of these that bind you to your alma mater. Abide by these values and learning and remember, when you go out to the professional world, you represent IBA, DU and all the skills you have acquired here. Perform to your fullest as your work reflects your education. Remember the dedication with which you persevered in IBA. If you firmly hold onto that attitude, you shall not falter.

In this important milestone of your life, I want to congratulate the parents, family members and spouses for their love and support. I would also like to congratulate the faculty members and officers and staff of the institute who have worked to make this institution what it is today.

I wish you all the best for the days to come.

Message from the Pro Vice Chancellor (Administration)

On this joyous occasion of Graduation 2016, I would like to extend my heartiest congratulations to all the graduating students of BBA, MBA and EMBA Program of Institute of Business Administration

All your hard work has resulted in a cluster of brilliant young minds embracing the future with vivacious enthusiasm. Nevertheless, this hard work is not over. You will keep rising and falling, and in between, you'll experience remarkable events, you'll make mistakes, and you'll get more acquainted with this enigma that we call life. But remember to always be humble when rising high and to always be strong when falling low, because today onwards, life will be a battlefield where you shall only seek to prosper.

I'm honored to be a part of such an important event in your life. Your graduation is one of the most enormous achievements of your life, but there is more to come. There will be more challenges, goals and opportunities, and you'll find yourself with more responsibilities than you could have ever imagined. And through these events, you will learn that there is something far more important than degrees, and that is education. I want you to realize this: Degrees are important, but education lasts a lifetime.

Today, you are being trusted with a responsibility that exceeds yourself. You represent not only yourself, but this university, and this nation. We believe that you have been provided with the best education possible in Bangladesh, and we earnestly hope and pray that you will create a positive impact on our society and help those that rely on you. I am convinced that you will reach great heights and do so with the values that you have acquired and nurtured while at the IBA, University of Dhaka.

This occasion reminds me to congratulate and thank your parents and teachers. It is indeed a value of high moral standard to bear in mind that your parents and teachers were the most effective driving force behind your today's success. The best reflections of these values are noticed in the life and works of the greatest Bangali of all times, father of the nation, Bangabandhu Sheikh Mujibur Rahman.

Congratulations and may you go far ahead.
