WOMEN WITH DISABILITIES They need infrastructure, sign language interpreters

WDDF roundtable told

Lack of physical infrastructure and sign language interpreters are among the obstacles for which women with disabilities are often denied justice, speakers told a roundtable yesterday.

They said women with physical disabilities face difficulties when they need to visit courts as neither transports nor court buildings have ramps to facilitate their movement. On the other hand, victims with speech and hearing impairment struggles to file a case with police as they are not accompanied by any sign language interpreter.

The roundtable titled "Access to Justice for Women with Disabilities" was organised by Women with Disabilities Development

Foundation (WDDF) at The Daily Star Centre in the capital.

Negative assumptions and attitudinal problem also create hindrance in cases of women with disabilities, said Advocate Salma Ali, executive director of Bangladesh National Woman Lawyers' Association at the function.

Moreover, women with disabilities are viewed as not credible as they are not able to make things understandable to the law-enforcement agencies. Mindset should be changed to support such women, she added.

Chairperson of WDDF Shirin Akhter said a sign language interpreter should accompany a woman impaired with speaking and hearing to help her communicate in the court during hearing.

Mystery over Rajshahi police officer's death

Father doesn't accept cops' suicide claim

A police official was found dead in a room of Police Officers' Mess in Rajshahi city yesterday morning.

Sabbir Ahmed Sorfaraj, 33, an assistant commissioner of Rajpara Police Station, was found hanging from a window grille with a white nylon rope tied to his neck, said Rajshahi Metropolitan Police Commissioner M Shafiqul Islam.

Sabbir often stayed in Room No-2 on the ground floor of the four-storey dormitory after his night duty, he said.

Police recovered the body by breaking open the door eight hours after his parents reached Rajshahi from Dhaka.

RMP Assistant Commissioner Iftekhayer Alam said he committed suicide.

Enamul Haque, a forensic doctor at Rajshahi Medical College, confirmed his death by checking him through the window in the morning. "We primarily found that he committed suicide."

Police prepared an inquest report in the presence of Executive Magistrate Sharif Ashif Rahman, who said Sabbir was found half-lying and his room was locked from inside.

Sabbir's father, M Obaidullah, a retired deputy inspector general (DIG) of police, said, "My son had no reason to commit suicide. It is mysterious. I will wait for the autopsy."

Obaidullah, also a member of Rajshahi city unit Awami League's advisory committee, said he saw the body sitting on a sofa with a nylon rope around the neck.

Sabbir lived at his Uposhohor Housing Estate house with his wife and daughter.

His wife Nasrin Sultana Suchona, a teacher of Barind

Sumaiya in DMCH for medical checkup

Sumaiya, the five-year-old girl who was rescued 24 days after she was abducted from her Kamrangirchar house, was taken to Dhaka Medical College Hospital for medical checkup.

The girl was admitted at Gynaecology department of DMCH yesterday afternoon for medical checkup," Shaheen Fakir, officer-in-charge of Kamrangirchar Police Station, told The Daily Star.

Later, she was transferred to One Stop Crisis Centre of the hospital.

She was vomiting since Friday night, her father Zakir Hossain said, adding, she might have been beaten up or served intoxicated food by the abductors.

Sumaiya was abducted in front of her house in Kamrangirchar area on April 3. Later on Thursday, police rescued her from a house in Rahmatbagh area of Kadamtali in the capital.

Police is yet to find out the reason why Sumaiya was abducted.

Secondary edu suffers most for quality

The country's secondary education is mostly in disarray when it comes to quality, a member of the Planning Commission told a discussion in the capital yesterday.

Dr Shamsul Alam said, "Arbitrary enlistments of educational institutions on MPO left them in a complete mess."

"How quality education can be ensured without recruitment of quality teachers?" he asked at the discussion on "Accountability for Sustainable Development Goals (SDG) for education and citizen participation."

Recruitment based on lobbying instead of competence cannot ensure quality in any sector, he said, adding Japan and South Korea in East Asia achieved national development by virtue of quality education.

Campaign for Popular Education (CAMPE) and Citizen's Platform for SDGs, Bangladesh jointly organised the discussion as part of Global Action Week for Education 2017 at Brac Centre Inn.

After satisfactory primary enrollment as per the Millennium Development Goal, now achieving quality of education remains a foremost challenge, said Mostafizur Rahman, minister for primary and mass education.

The crisis of quality persists at both public and private schools, he said, adding that the government had recruited 1.26 lakh primary teachers, with 50,000 posts still remaining vacant.

For Bangladesh, inclusion and quality are the two biggest challenges in achieving the SDG target in education, said Shaheen Anam, executive director of Manusher Jonno Foundation.

About the characteristics of education, she said it must contribute to making responsible citizens and respectful human beings and enable them to embrace diversity.

In his keynote speech, Dr Mustafa K Mujeri, executive director of the Institute of Microfinance, identified two
