

Let's talk

I'd like to believe that most folks are blessed with loving, supportive families. I'm thankful for mine. Some, however, are not that fortunate. Some parents/families can be cruel and toxic. This is a reality. Nothing more traumatic than a kid growing up in a toxic environment. If that's your case, find someone (a friend/teacher/neighbour) who genuinely cares about you. You'll always find at least one person who does. If nothing else, just talking to someone who's willing to LISTEN is a major step.
