

Nicole Kidman and Keith Urban give the most awkward interview ever!

Nicole Kidman and Keith Urban appeared in "The Graham Norton Show" and probably had the most awkward interview of their lives. During the show, Nicole was asked about her upcoming movie, "The Beguiled", where she stars opposite Colin Farrell. However, the chat got awkward when the topic of the rather intimate scenes she shared with Farrell came up. She said, "I had to give him a sponge bath and it took about a day!" It was further made worse when she was asked about whether those scenes were uncomfortable, to which Nicole replied, "Considering what Colin and I did in "The Killing of a Sacred Deer", that was nothing." She then quickly added, "Can we move on? My husband is on the show!" Jokes aside, Kidman and Urban seemed very happy together and Urban even shared that he has planned a lot of special things for Kidman's upcoming 50th birthday. Well, what's one awkward interview for such an amazing couple!

The Cannes Film Festival has started and many of us were eagerly waiting to see Deepika, Aishwarya and Sonam's looks this year. And they certainly didn't disappoint! All three ladies walked the red carpet to represent the international brand L'Oréal.

Deepika, for her first Red Carpet appearance, wore a bold emerald-green gown by Brandon Maxwell. For the next day she chose a plum one-shoulder sheer Marchesa gown with floral work in which she looked absolutely ethereal. She raised the bar for the two next Indian divas and they surely lived up to it!

Aishwarya channeled her inner Cinderella in a baby-blue gown by Michael Cinco for her first Red Carpet appearance this year. She looked every bit like a royal princess in it. In her second appearance, she looked as if she rose from the depths of the red carpet itself in a bright-red Ralph and Russo gown. She paired it with bold red lips and looked hot enough to set Cannes on fire!

Sonam, the fashionista that she is, wowed us in her first appearance in soft blush-coloured embellished chiffon Elie Saab gown and custom-made accessories from Kalyan Jewelers.
