

Jamuna about to devour dyke

OUR CORRESPONDENT, Pabna

Damage of the under-construction flood protection embankment for the fifth time in the last couple of months due to erosion by the Jamuna river in Chowhali upazila of Sirajganj is worrying the people in the area.

Executive Engineer of Tangail Water Development Board (WDB) Md Shajahan Siraj said 80 metres of the under-construction embankment was eroded at Asimuddin More point in the last 24 hours, adding that repair work has begun in the affected area.

The erosion is happening due to the pressure of the river, he said, adding that the WDB has started dumping CO bags (sandbags) to prevent erosion at the point.

Due to the heavy pressure of water we have not gone for permanent protection work," the engineer said.

This is fifth time in the last couple of months that erosion of the embankment has taken place, according to locals and WDB officials.

Earlier, a 70-metre stretch of Khogener

Chat point was eroded on May 2. Around 50 metres at Alia Madrasa point of the embankment were eroded on May 16, and a small section was eroded at Asimuddin More in the first week of June, he added.

"The under-construction embankment is being eroded due to the poor construction work. If the embankment collapses, Chowhali upazila will be washed away by the Jamuna," said Md Rezaul Haque, a resident of the area.

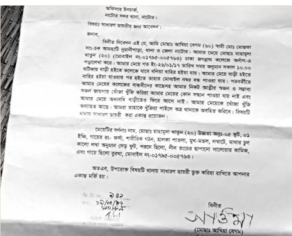

Tangail WDB started construction of the embankment from Nagarpur upazila in Tangail to Sirajganj's Chowhali upazila at a cost of Tk 109 crore in November 2014, and it is scheduled to be completed by April 2018.

Refuting the allegation of poor construction work, the WDB engineer said a technical survey showed that the soil is too weak to bear the weight of the embankment. A technical committee is likely to be formed to find out a way to permanently protect the embankment, Shajahan added.

'Militant' Mahamuda went missing 5 months ago

OUR CORRESPONDENT, Natore

Mahamuda Khatun alias Sumaiya Akter, arrested along with two other female militant suspects during the raid in a "Neo JMB" hideout in Kushi's Bheramara upazila on Saturday, had been missing for five months.

"Mahamuda's mother Amia Begum lodged a GD (No. 951) about our missing daughter with Natore Police Station on February 19 this year. If police investigated the matter and took necessary steps, she might not be a militant," said Mostafa Miyaqui, 60, father of the girl, 20.

She got herself admitted to the political science department of Jagannath University in 2014 and managed her expenses by tutoring students and with stipend from Islami Bank.

Mahamuda's brother Hazzat Ali said, "On January 26 this year, my sister left home for Jagannath University. Afterwards her mobile was found switched off and she remained missing."

"We did not know about Mahamuda's marriage with a Neo JMB leader. I want punishment of the criminals who involved my daughter with the group," Amia said.

Mashur Rahman, officer-in-charge of Natore Police Station, declined to comment on the said GD.

Judge Shaiful Islam of the Women and Children Repression Prevention Tribunal in the district sent Laxminipar Union Parishad Chairman Mostafizur Rahman Babel to jail when he surrendered before the court yesterday.

The judge also ordered the case to be placed before the juvenile court for trial, and the hearing will be held on that issue on July 5 (today), said advocate Shariful Islam, public prosecutor, Gaibandha.

Locals said Mostafizur had been harassing the schoolgirl for a long time.

The girl's guardians sent her to another school, but Mostafizur continued to harass her, family members said.

Mostafizur went to the girl's house on May 27 when she was alone and tried to rape her. When the girl started screaming, he fled the scene on his motorcycle.

Al-Mim Mia, uncle of the victim, filed a case with Gaibandha Police Station on June 3, accusing Mostafizur.

Flood fury rages

The upazila administration and municipality authorities have opened shelters for flood-hit people.

Road communication between the upazila and other parts of the country has remained suspended since Monday night as many roads and bridges are under water. The Mathamuhuri river is flowing above the normal level due to the onrush of water from the hills.

Many families had to take shelter at schools and cyclone shelters, said Bandanbar Deputy Commissioner Dilip Kumar Banik.

Lajma Municipality of Mayurajila Islam said 10 shelters were opened in the affected areas.

The district administration asked people living on the hills to evacuate the areas as incessant rain may cause landslides. Nearly 1,000 families are living at the foot of the hills ignoring the risk of landslides.

In Sylhet region, people in 1,188 villages of the two districts are affected by floods.

At least 500 educational institutions have been shut down while the authorities opened 44 shelters for more than a thousand families.

Many people, especially children, have been infected by water-borne diseases, reports our correspondents.
