

TUBELIGHT

FLOPS AT THE BOX OFFICE!

Tubelight, one of the most anticipated films of this year, has failed miserably at the box office considering that it is a Salman Khan film. The film, made with a budget of around 80-100 crore rupees, has managed to earn a mere 105.86 crores in six days. Although the makers of the film have already made enough profit from the sale of the music and theatrical rights, it is the distributors and exhibitors who have made a huge loss. Some distributors have even travelled to Mumbai to ask for some help from Salman Khan. Some distributors were reported saying that they ended up losing all the money they made from Dangal and Bahubali. However, there is something to learn for Bollywood from Tubelight's dismal fail at the box office. It's that the success of a film doesn't just depend on the actor but also on the writers, directors, and the content itself. Hopefully Bollywood will start making much better films soon.

Source: Internet

Amanda Seyfried

Can't Keep Her Eyes Off Her Husband!

Amanda Seyfried had eloped with Thomas Sadoski back in March, but she definitely isn't keeping her love for her husband a secret. She took to Instagram to post some adorable photos of them together and wishing her beloved for his 41st birthday. In one of the photos, Amanda is looking admiringly at her husband with a caption that says, "Still can't take my eyes off you. Happy Birthday to the man of my life." The newlyweds were pretty quiet about their relationship until recently. Thomas Sadoski surprised everyone when he announced his wedding to Amanda on The Late Late Show back in March. He said, "We just took off into the country with an officiant and just the two of us, we did our thing. We had a great day. It was perfect." They also wrote their own vows. Before their wedding, Amanda was dating Justin Long and Thomas was married to Kimberly Hope.

Source: Internet

MESSI

Ties the Knot!

Leonel Leo Messi has recently married his childhood sweetheart, Antonella Ruccozzo, in a lavish wedding in their hometown of Rosario, Argentina. Perhaps the only thing that was more lavish than the wedding was its guest list of 250 people. The wedding was a star-studded affair with Messi's current and former teammates, and also Shakira who is currently the partner of Gerard Pique. Although wearing a black dress at a wedding is quite unconventional, Shakira slayed in a sheer black dress with strappy black stilettos. Gerard Pique also looked extremely handsome in a black tuxedo with a bow tie. However, it was the groom and his bride that stole the show. They both looked absolutely stunning as they said "I do" to each other. Antonella wore a strapless white gown with a long train and Messi wore a blue suit and paired it with a silver tie. The happy couple was also spotted taking a number of pictures after the ceremony. The couple also has two sons, Thiago and Mateo.

Source: Internet