Incessant rain disrupts life

Tangail-Sirajganj road communication cut, Rangamati-Khagrachhari link road damaged

STAR COUNTRY DESK

Continuous rain snapped road communication between Tangail and Sirajganj on Monday, damaged the link road between Rangamati and Khagrachhari again yesterday and paralysed life in Jhalakathi.

Our Tangail correspondent reports that vehicular movement between Nagarpur upazila of Tangail and Chowhali upazila of Sirajganj was snapped as the approach road of a bridge collapsed due to heavy rain for the last three days.

Upazila Nirbahi Officer Asma Shahin, Assistant Commissioner (land) Pulok Kanti Chakraborty and Upazila Engineer in Nagarpur ATM Rabiul Alam visited the spot.

Ershad Miah of the area said hundreds of passengers and farmers with goods-laden trucks are suffering due to the situation.

An accident may happen any time and the bridge will collapse if the damage is not repaired immediately, he added.

Nagarpur Upazila Engineer of Local Government and Engineering Department ATM Rabiul Alam said vehicular movement has been suspended to avoid risk of accidents.

"Emergency repair work will be done so vehicular movement on the bridge can resume," he added.

The link road between Rangamati and Khagrachhari was closed to traffic for about 33 days due to landslide on June 13. After repair, the road was opened on July 16 for only light vehicles, but about 20 metres collapsed yesterday due to heavy rain and surge of water from upstream.

This correspondent visited Sapchari Khamara Para area yesterday and saw that a portion of the road was destroyed. Another portion had collapsed two kilometres from Khamara Para.

Continuous rain has brought untold sufferings for the low income people, particularly day labourers and rickshaw pullers, in the district.

The rain has been continuing for five days due to depression in the Bay, reports our Jhalakathi correspondent.

Vast agricultural lands have gone under water due to rise in the water level.

"Our work has remained stopped for the last five days because of the bad weather," said Kamal, a day labourer of Rajapur Bazar area, adding that he had to borrow money to buy food for his family.

"It is the peak time for planting Aman paddy but we cannot work in the field due to rising water level," said Al-Amin, a farmer of Monohorpur of Rajapur, adding that some of his seedbeds are now under water.

"The seedbeds may be harmed if the rain continues for a few more days but we are not worried as we have made many floating seedbeds," said Sheikh Abu Bakar Siddik, deputy director of the Department of Agriculture Extension in the district.

JHALAKATHI'S FLOATING MARKET Tourist haven without amenities

M JAHIRUL ISLAM JEWEL with ANDREW EAGLE

Jhalakathi's three-hundred-year-old floating market at Vemruli in Sadar upazila is a sight to behold. But visitors to the market are let down by a lack of amenities. What could be a major tourist attraction yet fails to realise its potential.

"We are a group of thirty tourists who have come to experience this unique market," says one visitor, Sumia from Dhaka. "But there are so few shelters around. We had to wait in the rain."

"The place is beautiful; hundreds of boats on the zigzag canals are really great to see," says another member of the group, "but there really is no comfortable way to do so."

"There is a shortage of bathroom facilities for tourists," notes Surojit, owner of a restaurant that caters to market visitors, "and as for places to stay, sometimes the tourists stay in private homes."

There is currently no hotel or guest house; even there are few places to sit or buy refreshments.

"If the government provided some basic facilities," remarks local college teacher Milton Halder, "this place could be one of the most important tourist attractions in the country."

Visitors arrive year round at the market, but it's during the rainy season that numbers peak, when the market is at its flourishing best. Yet it's also then that the lack of facilities is arguably most acutely felt.

"We have plans to develop the area for tourism," says the local government engineering department's deputy commissioner in Jhalakathi, Md Hamidul Haque. "The plans are being processed and we hope to implement them in due course."

Patients bear the brunt

Shortage of doctors, X-ray machine out of order in Sarishabari Health Complex

OUR CORRESPONDENT, Jamalpur

Medical services at Sarishabari Upazila Health Complex are being seriously hampered due to shortage of doctors and out-of-order equipment, thanks to the indifference of the authorities concerned.

As many as 400 to 520 patients, including 100 to 150 emergency patients, 250 to 300 outpatients and 50 to 70 inpatients are being given treatment daily by only four doctors, whereas there are 27 posts, including 10 posts of junior consultants at the 50-bed hospital. As a result, patients are being deprived of proper treatment, said Upazila Health and Family Planning Officer (UHFPO) Dr Muhammad Rabiul Islam.

Out of 10 posts of junior consultants at the hospital, nine have been lying vacant for over two years, he said.

Only nine medical officers (MO) against 13 posts have been posted at the hospital, but seven of them have been sent on deputation, attachment and training for months, Dr Rabiul said. The posts of dental surgeon and medical officer (herbal) have been lying vacant for years, he added.

In the prevailing situation, Resident Medical Officer (RMO) Momtaj Uddin, medical officers -- Saifur Rahman Khan and Debasish Rajbangshi -- and junior consul-
