

Hello darkness, my old friend

Think of all your favourite songs, artworks, literature, movies. The ones that really REALLY shook you. How many of them came from a dark place? No, I'm not trying to romanticise depression.

But if you find it "normal" to cry to that favourite song after you get dumped, and consider depression to be a "bad" word, something to be ashamed of, then clearly there's something wrong with how we as a society perceive depression in general.

Understand that the dark place which can give birth to beautiful works of art can also be uncontrollable for some people. And that doesn't make them "weak/selfish".

Don't expect a person battling his/her demons to come to you and seek help; be a good human being and try to make their surroundings better.

- Karim Waheed, Editor, SHOUT

MIXTAPECHESTER*GREY DAZE

Wake Me

LINKIN PARK

In the End

LINKIN PARK ft. JAY-Z

Numb/Encore

LINKIN PARK

Leave Out All the Rest

STONE TEMPLE PILOTS

Out of Time

LINKIN PARK ft. KIIARA

Heavy

APP REVIEWNONY KHONDAKERPlatform: Android
Size: 54.7 MB

If you ever came across something called "There is no game" on the Google Play Store and ignored it considering it to be something like the "I am Rich" app on the Store, you are missing out on a lot.

"There is no game" is a "non-game" that is in denial about the fact that it is indeed, a game. Upon opening the game, you will be welcomed with a "not loading" screen that takes an awful lot of time, probably to convince users that it is actually not loading. After the progress bar completes, a black screen with the words "There is no game" shows up and the narrator of the game tells you that this is not a game. However, it is up to you to uncover the game hidden beneath the mask of a "non-game" by tapping on different places on the screen. The puzzles in the game require a lot of attention and the narrator provides useful hints from time to time. So, this game is not suitable for playing in a crowded place.

As fresh the concept behind the game might be, it sadly is only about ten minutes in length and is devoid of any replay value. Thankfully, the game is free so do give it a download to be amazed for the first (and the last) time.

THIS WEEK'S HORRORSCOPEARIES

Listen to the child inside you.

TAURUS

If it smells like baby vomit, shift to Plan B.

GEMINI

Find an apple and rub a grape on it. Now it's a grapple.

CANCER

Your wallet speaks louder than your soul.

LEO

Your ignorance will bring drought to your lands.

VIRGO

Cake will bring luck. Inside your pockets. The back ones, specifically.

LIBRA

Don't take shortcuts through alleyways tomorrow. It's kinda scary.

SCORPIO

A well-lit room is better than one that's lit red.

SAGITTARIUS

Speakerphone conversations go better with stashed food.

CAPRICORN

Why is he eating?

AQUARIUS

We are not allowed to eat here.

PISCES

Please cook your own homeopathic medicine.

