Kareena Kapoor Khan

Kareena Kapoor Khan AKA the Begum of Bollywood is perhaps the only fashion diva who can influence mainstream fashion. Any average Bollywood-loving girl would be caught copying her fashion choices even if they aren't the most stylish of looks. From playing Poo in 'Kabhi Khushi Kabhie Gham' to becoming the mother of the latest Nawab, Taimur Ali Khan, Kareena had a fantastic fashion journey.

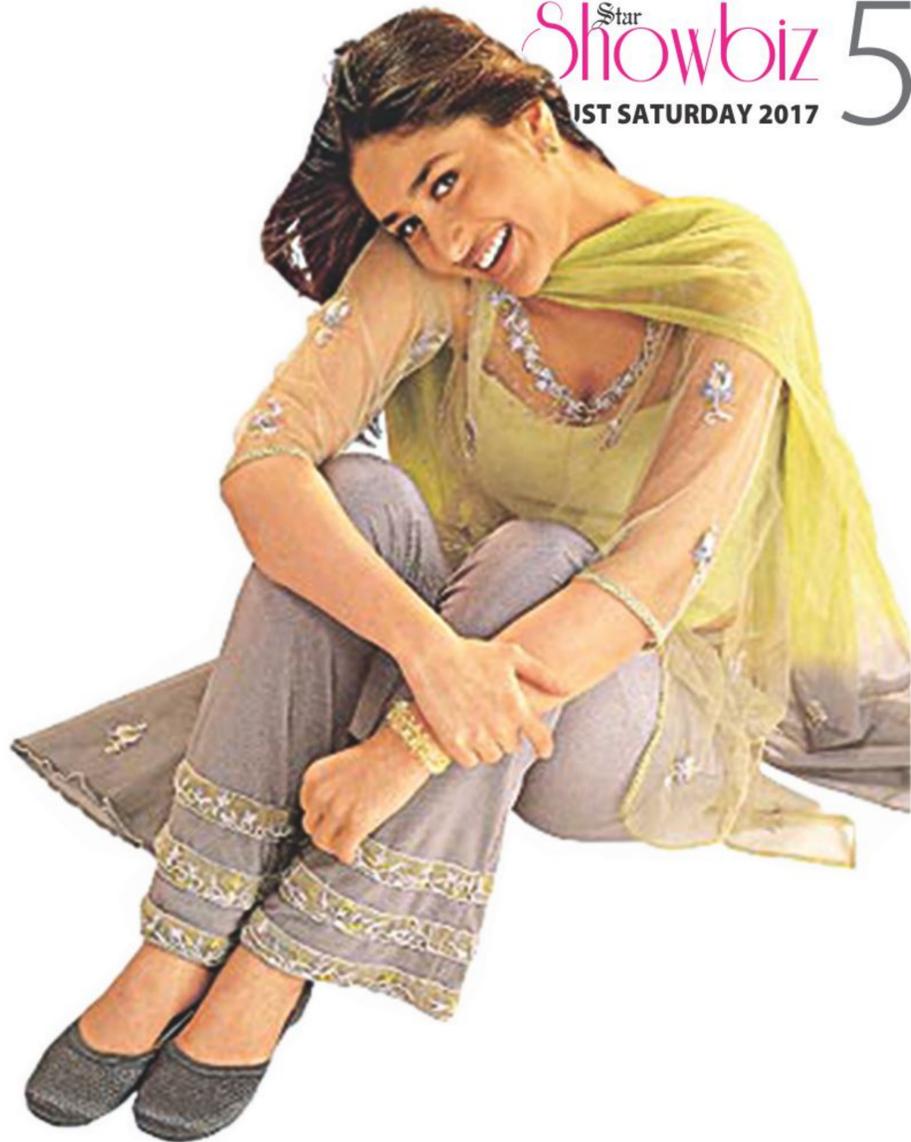

During the early 2000s, Kareena was a big fan of Indo Western fusions. From Lehenga-gowns to Gharara- jeans, there were a lot of things that no one really understood. However, Kareena being the style diva that she is, managed to make it work and looked stylish nonetheless. After that, appeared Kareena's fixation with dark brown, frosty-nude lip color. She wore this color with almost every outfit of hers. During the same time, she also had an obsession with blonde streaks.

Hearts were broken everywhere when Kareena broke up with long-term boyfriend Shahid Kapoor. But unlike most girls, Kareena chose to get a completely new avatar by transforming into the latest craze back then, the Size Zero Figure. Afterwards, when our Bebo turned Begum, her loud and colorful outfits were replaced by more sophisticated and polished outfits making her fashion royalty status official.

Perhaps the best looks that Kareena donned was after she got pregnant. While many Bollywood actresses shy away from the limelight during this time, Kareena made a pact to work for as long as she could. She even walked the ramp as a showstopper all the while flaunting her baby bump in style.
