

Games to get you through the boring bits of Eid

Let's face it; Eid-ul-Azha isn't all about fun times with friends and taking #cowfies. Sometimes we get bushwhacked into that dawaat during which our interest in our surroundings plummets like my K/D ratio in Rainbow Six Siege. Well, worry not. Today, we have a bunch of games that can help you survive the onslaught of boredom.

SHAHRIKH IKHTEAR

STARTING OFF WITH OUR MOBILE GAMES CATEGORY

Mars: Mars

PLATFORMS: Android and iOS

MARS: Mars is an extremely simple game that can get addictive really quickly. You have to control an astronaut's jetpack to safely navigate him to launchpads.

PROS:

- Surprisingly simple, yet addictive gameplay.
- Colourful graphics.
- Lots of different astronauts and environments to unlock

CONS:

- Can get really frustrating after a lot of failed attempts.
- Micro-transactions allow you to buy lives for your astronauts.

Burrito Bison: Launcha Libre

PLATFORMS: Android and iOS

This is one is a bit strange. You play as a luchador who has to launch from his ring and traverse a large distance while crushing invading gummy bears. Sounds interesting?

PROS:

- Satisfying to do time jumps and crush gummy bears.
- Loads of unique powerups to explore.

CONS:

- Gets repetitive after longer playthrough sessions.

Guns of Boom

PLATFORMS: Android and iOS

One of the very few fun online first-person-shooter games on mobile. The controls are simple and it offers exciting multiplayer team-based action.

PROS:

- Excellent shooting mechanics.
- Loads of new weapons to unlock.
- Fluid graphics.

CONS:

- Requires a mid-range phone to play without hitches.
- You have to be always online.
- The game follows a pay-to-win model.

NOW FOR GAMES THAT YOU CAN PLAY ON PC

Hearthstone

Although the game is available on mobile as well, Hearthstone plays best on a computer. The trading card game from Blizzard is very easy to pick up and play but once you get into it, you will find a wide array of complex strategies that you can make with the vast amount of cards available.

PROS:

- You will keep saying "one more match" till you see the Sun rise the next day.
- Intuitive and engaging gameplay.

CONS:

- Mostly pay-to-win because you will need to buy card packs to strengthen your basic decks.
- You have to be online.

Playerunknown's battlegrounds

The game which took everyone by storm when it launched. Battlegrounds is a tense survival shooter game where you have to compete against 99 other players to be the last one standing. A huge open world, a plethora of guns, and multiple camping spots all work together to make the perfect Battle Royale game.

PROS:

- Incredibly intense gunplay.
- Rich, detailed world.
- Extremely satisfying to win matches.

CONS:

- You will need a decent PC to run it at acceptable settings.
- It is very frustrating to die because someone secured a sniper rifle before you did.
- Occasionally you will come across people who keep screaming into their microphones. (Pro tip: just turn off voice chat.)

The Elder Scrolls V: Skyrim

What better way to drown out the guests talking about how your cousin got a 5.00 GPA in university even though the maximum GPA is 4.00? Skyrim is the quintessential monster of a game that eats up your time like no other.

PROS:

- Hundreds of hours of content to explore.
- Hilarious bugs and glitches.
- You get to shout at dragons.

CONS:

- You will be nothing but a mere memory for your family as you will be playing the game all the time in your room.
- Bugs aren't as funny when they corrupt your save file.
