Work for speeding up rape trials

Law minister asks prosecutors

STAFF CORRESPONDENT

Law Minister Anisul Huq has instructed the prosecutors to take necessary steps for the speedy hearing and disposing of the rape cases at the lower courts across the country.

"The prosecutors have been asked to take effective steps for speedy hearing and finishing the trial proceedings of the case filed for the rape and killing of Rupa Khatun after the police submit the investigation report to the court. Trial proceedings of any other rape case will also be finished quickly. The prosecutors have been given instruction to this effect," said Anisul Huq.

Rupa Khatun, a law student was killed after gang-rape in a running bus on August 25.

The law minister was talking to reporters while exchanging Eid greetings at his secretariat office yesterday afternoon.

Anisul said all the cases will be disposed of quickly through due process of law.

Replying to a question, he said the repression on Rohingya in Rakhaing state in Myanmar is very regretting and the world community should give attention to this.

The United Nations should immediately take steps to stop torture and repression on Rohingya, the law minister said.

Meanwhile, the Eid-ul-Azha was celebrated peacefully across the country, he added.

Law Secretary ASSM Zahurul Haque Dulal was present on the occasion.

No more tumours in Muktamoni's arm: Doctors

STAFF CORRESPONDENT

Muktamoni, the 12-year-old Sakhira girl, who has been suffering from an "unknown disease" causing abnormal swelling of her right arm, has undergone a third surgery at Dhaka Medical College and Hospital yesterday.

After the three-and-a-half-hours operation beginning at 9:00am, national burn unit coordinator Dr Samanta Lal Sen told reporters that there were no more tumours in her arm.

Doctors conducted a 3rd surgery after the 2nd biopsy found existence of tumours in the blood vessels of the arm on August 18. They had to leave the second surgery half done on August 29 as her body temperature soared due to fever.

On August 12, doctors removed a 3kg tumour from her arm. A 13-member team is looking into her case.

Don't defend Rupa's killers in court

Nasim urges lawyers

BSS, Dhaka

Health and Family Welfare Minister Mohammed Nasim yesterday called upon the lawyers not to stand for the killers of Rupa Khatun, who was raped and killed recently inside a moving bus in Tangail.

"Rupa, who belonged to a poor family in Tarash, Siraiganj, had to go through lots of hardships for her livelihood. The whole family was dependent on her. Those who raped and subsequently killed her are worse than animals. I am humbly requesting all the lawyers not to move their cases," the minister said, while exchanging Eid greetings with the employees and officials of his ministry.

The health minister reiterated his pledge to give a job to the younger sister of Rupa, saying, "I visited Rupa's house on Eid day and witnessed firsthand how a brutal incident like that can ruin an entire family."

Nasim urged all the officials for working sincerely to attain visible successes in the last year of the present government's tenure.

"The current fiscal is very significant to fulfill the political commitments of the government. We have to fulfill commitments made by the government in the health sector by completing the ongoing projects quickly and transparently," he added.

He thanked physicians, nurses and other medical staff for their uninterrupted services during the Eid holidays.

There is a signboard that says the pond belongs to Bangladesh Shishu Academy, Dhaka district.

Mohammad Harun Chowdhury, a trader of brick and sand who is running his business on a filled-up portion of the pond, said they have been doing business there since 1985.

A legal battle over ownership of the pond is going between the government and one of the owners, he said.

Rasheda Begum, district officer (children affairs) of Shishu Academy, said the property became a khas land in 1960. They received the land from the DC office at a token price of Tk 1,001.

"There is two acres of land here of which the academy received half acres including a portion of the pond. Rest of the land is still under the DC office," she said.

Rasheda said those who are claiming the ownership is unaware of it.

She said they will construct a 10-storey building for their Dhaka district office for children. The construction work might start in December.

"The DC office may protect the rest of the land as pond or hand it over to the other departments. They are yet to make a decision in this regard," she said.

Taking risks, students of Charkarangi Secondary School cross Mraa Nodir Khal through a bamboo bridge in Karnakathi union of Sadar upazila in Barisal. The bridge is the only means for the villagers of the union to cross the canal. The photo was taken recently.
