

FAMOUS BIRTHDAYS

B.B. KING

*"The thrill is gone away from me
Although, I'll still live on
But so lonely I'll be"*

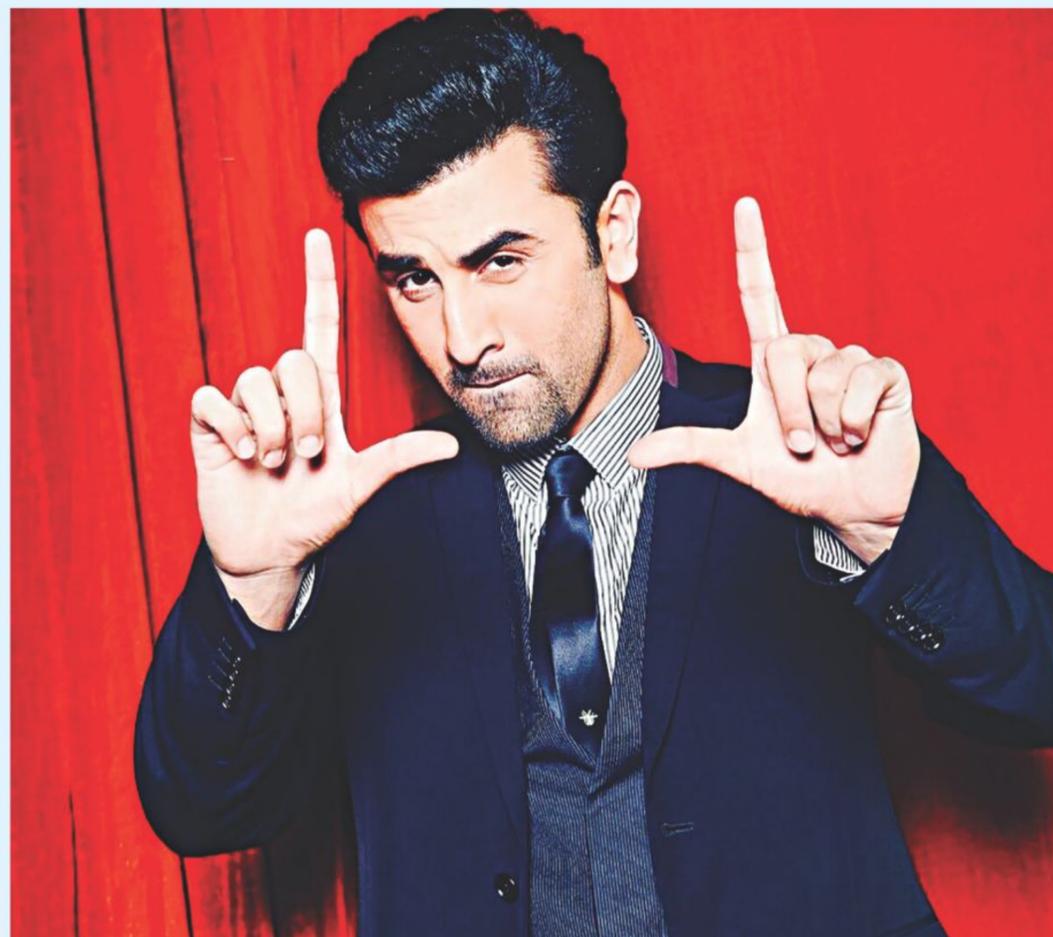

B.B. King, known as the "The King of the Blues", is one of the most important figures in the history of the Blues genre. He has left behind a legacy of a unique musical style that has influenced countless musicians across generations. This 1987 inductee to the Rock and Roll Hall of Fame has been known for being an influential personality who put his heart and soul into creating musical masterpieces. Among his many famous songs are; There Must Be a Better World Somewhere, Three O'Clock Blues, Why I Sing the Blues, You Upset Me Baby, and The Thrill Is Gone, for which he was awarded the Grammy in 1970. He took his last breath at 15th May 2015. However, the legend of B.B. King will live on forever.

The Normal Clooneys!

George Clooney recently shed some light on how he and Amal named their twins; Ella and Alexander Clooney. "We didn't want to give them one of those ridiculous Hollywood names that don't mean anything," he said. "They'll already have enough difficulty bearing the weight of their celebrity parents." They have also taken sufficient precaution to ensure privacy for their children as they want their children to have a life as normal as possible. George Clooney even planned to take legal action against a French magazine that published photos of the twins in their home in Italy. The Clooneys feel that due to their celebrity status, their children will be watched and judged for their every move. Thus, they want to create a life for them that will be private and normal.

Ranbir's Fanboy Moment!

There are a lot of ladies who run after Ranbir Kapoor. However, what many don't know is that Ranbir Kapoor is a big fan of Natalie Portman. So much so that he even ran after the Oscar winner once. They were at Tribeca and Natalie Portman was on the phone crying. Ranbir Kapoor spotted her and ran after and when he got near her, he started saying, "I love your..." But before he could finish the sentence, Natalie Portman turned back, screamed, "Get lost!" and walked away. Although that broke Ranbir's heart, he is still a diehard fan of her.
