

Gaming Peripherals

While it is true that skill is more important in gaming than the tools you use to wage war in the virtual realm, gaming-centric peripherals grant you the advantages that you cannot do without. Suppose you're facing off against a player of equal calibre and he's using gaming gears while you're not. He'll basically beat you more often than not simply because of his equipment. This happens because he's using a mouse with an amazing sensor and that gives him more control over his aim. He's also using a mechanical keyboard which reduces the input lag on key presses, allowing him to execute his moves faster. Bottom line: gaming gears — not a necessity, but definitely a huge advantage.

APP REVIEW

LIVE THE RPG LIFE

RUMMAN R KALAM

Platforms: iOS/Android

If you're someone like me who loves RPGs and the whole levelling up, skill point reward system, Habitica might be a good addition to your productivity apps list. What Habitica does is essentially turn your life into an RPG. For that, you select a very basic avatar and add tasks you would like to accomplish. There are daily tasks, one off tasks and habits. For each one completed, you get experience points that levels you up and gold which you can use to buy cosmetic items for your avatar. As long as you remain true to yourself and follow the tasks in the app, it can be a rewarding experience for you to grow with your avatar. This is great for those who are trying to get some studying done in the admission season or just someone who's looking to use their time a bit more effectively.
