

Prince Harry and Meghan Markle to make it official?

News of Prince Harry and Meghan Markle's engagement has been circulating the media for quite some time now. Meghan and Harry's recent trip to Africa only seems to have added fuel to this fire. Although Meghan returned from the trip without a ring, it didn't stop people from conjuring theories. Meghan has also met with the Queen recently, most likely to ask of approval for her and Harry's union. Many believe that the official royal announcement will be made at the Invictus Games which will be held at Toronto, a place that is very near and dear to Harry's heart. Africa is also a rather special place for Harry as shortly after Princess Diana's death, Harry visited Africa along with his brother and father. A lot of places and events in Harry and Meghan's romance seem to have great emotional significance to him. Thus, it's not hard to imagine why people are speculating about their engagement so much.
