

STYLE EVOLUTION

KATE HUDSON

Having attended Hollywood shows since childhood with her superstar parents Goldie Hawn and Kurt Russell, Kate Hudson has grown into a stylish woman. From captivating the audiences with her dazzling smile and envious blonde locks, she knows it all. In this issue, we bring you Kate Hudson's style evolution.

Born into Hollywood royalty, Kate Hudson had an amazing sense of style. At the premiere of The Insider, she was seen rocking those Friends-era long-skirt and a cute cardigan with simple blow-dried hair. Kate is a master when it comes to balancing sexiness with elegance, especially when it comes to red carpet fashion. She proved this in a champagne gold Versace dress during the 2002 Golden Globes with very minimal makeup. This was also the first time we got a glimpse of her trademark blonde waves that she would sport for years to come.

Kate decided to switch up her hair a light more by going darker. For a short period of time from before her pregnancy till sometime after, Kate was honey blonde. However, she couldn't stay away from her trademark light blonde hair and came back to it in 2005 right after her pregnancy. She also showed off her fit physique in this yellow one-shoulder dress.

Kate only seems to change her hair style during her pregnancies which she proved during her second pregnancy in 2010. Straying from her wavy blonde locks, she gave straight hair a shot. However, like always, she couldn't stay away from her naturally curly hair for long, and went right back to it. Kate Hudson's style evolution has been a fascinating one.
